EDITORIAL BRIEFS

THERE will be no extra session of Congress.

BOULANGER continues to be a figure in French politics.

WON'T some one hunt up the politics. There is very little of it around.

THE election of the entire Republican ticket daily becomes more probable.

Now the web of guilt for the murder of Annie E Leconey is gathering its meshes closely around her uncle, Chalkley Leconey.

AFTER the congressional elections in the four new states, the House of Representatives will stand 169 Republicans and 161 Democrats.

JOHN L SULLIVAN is denounced as a "ring" candidate and it is said that he will favor the Marquis of Queensberry rules with which to govern the House.

WE have seen it stated that John L Sullivan denies the authorship of the letter stating that he is willing to go to Congress if the people will kindly send him.

IN Quebec the occupants of 900 houses must vacate them to avoid being crushed by another fall of rock that may occur at any time. An entire street is thus rendered useless.

WE are not in favor of the appointment of Col. Merrill, of Massachusetts, for commissioner of pensions. He is already talking too much in giving his opinion of the retiring commissioner,

WE believe New York city will get the World's Fair of 1892. Already she has selected a location and estimated on the cost of building. She will have a tower higher than the Eiffel tower of Paris.

THE late President Barnard bequeathed all of his property to the institution which had been developed by his life service. The Columbia of the future will be a monument to the devotion of this scholarly and modest teacher.

THE Ohio Democrats tell the wool manufacturers that the price of the wool they use is made high by the tariff, and then turn round to the farmers and assure them that protection has reduced the price of the wool they grow. No wonder Campbell said his party could not afford to run this campaign on the tariff issue.

THE first test of the Australian system of voting in the United States was made on the 11th at Minneapolis, which resulted in the election of a Republican alderman in a Democrat ward. The people of both parties declare the experiment to have been a great success. Next November it will be tried on a large scale in the state elections.

SIX cotton mills have been closed at Blackburn, a London dispatch states, owing to the depressed state of trade. The free trade newspaper in this country may be relied on to say nothing about this item of news. But if six mills had closed anywhere in the United States what a howl would have gone up about the tariff! The eagerness with which English capitalists are investing their money in this country is the best possible evidence of their opinion of the value of a protective tariff. For the prosperity of England free trade may be vital, but the very opposite is true of the United States.—Philadelphia Press.

THE THIRD PARTY CONVENTION.

The Third party men have come and gone. Some forty old gentlemen carried their rheumatism and their ancient prejudices up the court house stairs, and called themselves a convention. A beautiful harmony prevailed. All were agreed that outside of their ranks there was to be found nothing but corruption and wickedness. The resolutions voiced this sentiment, and "We are holier than thou" was the constant refrain. They congratulated themselves that since Sodom and Gomarrah would have been saved had they possessed ten good men, Centre county would be all right with forty. They denounced the Republicans for not passing the prohibition amendment, and let the Democrats off with a remark that they were not prohibitionists and that some of them took an occasional drink.

This denunciation of the Republicans was the chief plank of their platform. They never seemed to think that the reason why the amendment was defeated last June was that the majority of the voters did not want it. The Republican party as a party organization had nothing to do with its defeat. Every Republican newspaper throughout the state gave up a column of space to the prohibition arguments. The Republican politicians in all the interior counties proclaimed their intention of voting for it. No opposition was made to the amendment by the party as a party. The opposition came from those individuals who did not desire prohibition. Some opposed it on the ground that sumptuary legislation was contrary to the theory of our government. Others opposed it because they wanted to keep the saloons open. Finally, the Democratic party opposed it because they have always been closely allied with the liquor men. To sum up, the majority of the voters were opposed to it. As long as this is so, the amendment cannot be passed. It makes no difference how righteous the third party men may be, or how wicked the Republicans, until those who believe in prohibition are in the majority,—prohibition remains impossible.

After proclaiming that they were no longer Republicans, and never had been Democrats, these good people proceeded to nominate their candidates. Why they put up the five inoffensive gentlemen whose names will appear on their ticket, not one of them could tell. Mr. Fisher said that he was too old and feeble to be either a candidate or a judge, and everybody who knows the old gentleman must agree with him. Mr. Harshberger is Superintendent of a Sunday-school and a good organizer of picnics. He gets up very early in the morning and perhaps his friends think that, as the early bird catches the worm, the early attorney might catch the thief. Mr. Ganoe is a young man who shakes hands at the rate of forty a minute, but however valuable this faculty may be in a candidate, it is difficult to see how it would benefit a prothonotary. But it is useless to discuss their qualifications for office. Of all the citizens of Centre county, the five candidates of the third party have the least chance of ever filling a public position. The only effect their nomination has, is to worry their personal friends, who don't like to refuse to vote for them, and at the same time dislike to throw their votes away.

As we pointed out last week, the third party is a mistake. It does no good to anybody, except to a few men who like to make speeches in conventions. Some of the enthusiasts of the party claim that they occupy the same position towards the Republican party that the Abolitionists held towards the Whigs. Nothing could be more erroneous. The majority of the Abolitionists supported the Whig party on Henry Clay's platform of compromises. They were, unlike the third party men of to-day, practical men, who, when they could not get all they wanted, contented themselves with what was obtainable. In 1856 the Republican party entered the campaign, not on the Abolition issue, but on the question of no slavery in the territories, and the Abolitionists voted the Republican ticket. There were 2500 abolition societies in 1856, but, as a political party, the Abolitionists were nowhere. The prohibitionists should take the example to heart. Moral movements are best promoted outside of party organizations. The contentions, the jealousies, the strifes of parties are inimical to purely moral issues. Those who believe in prohibition should devote themselves to the dissemination of their views. They should unite all temperance people in a crusade against the liquor curse. They should form societies, establish papers, distribute tracts and make speeches as the abolitionists did. In this way they might some day enjoy a triumph like that of the Abolitionists. While they are looking forward to prohibition as their ultimate goal, they should, like the abolitionists, take advantage of what restrictions public sentiment approves. High License and local option are a decided advance on "free whiskey," and as such are deserving of the support of all sincere temperance people.

VERITAS.

How are the Mighty Fallen.

Mr. D Lamont is too busy now to coin phrases for the use of Mr G Cleveland.

The railroad interests of the versatile ex-Private Secretary are too engrossing and arduous to allow any time for explorations in Mr. N Webster's unabridged dictionary, for the purpose of embellishing Mr. Cleveland's public utterances.

Hence we do not find such verbal combinations as "innocuous desuetude" and "pernicious activity" shining like gems in the remarks vouchsafed by the ex-President to a New York reporter recently.

Instead of such specimens of picturesque English, Mr. Cleveland displays to a wondering world such expressions as "hand-to-mouth evasion," and "the fleshpots of vacillating shifts."

"The fleshpots of vacillating shifts!" Shades of "ghoulish glee," and "public office is a public trust!" How are the mighty fallen!

The assistance of Mr. Lamont will have to be invoked if Mr. Cleveland is to address himself to the public again as a candidate.

In the meantime it might be well to supply readers with diagrams elucidating the true inwardness of "hand-to-mouth evasion" and "the fleshpots of vacillating shifts."

THERE is located at Chicago a university which is designed to give an advanced education to persons who cannot attend an institution of learning. It professes to afford as thorough a scholarship as can be obtained anywhere and has in its faculty seventy persons, among them several of wide reputation. It grants the degrees B. A., B. S., B. L., and B. Ph., not for money as is so often done by other institutions, but as a reward of merit to those who successfully complete the course. Two members of its faculty are Benjamin Williamson, examiner in the University of London, and Thomas Muir, F. R. S. E., examiner in the University of Glasgow. The details in regard to the course may be obtained by application to the office of the Correspondence University 147 Throop street, Chicago, Ill., of which F. W. Harkins, A. M., Ph. D., is President.

The Quebec Disaster.

The year 1889, destined to be memorable as a year of peace, has been marked more than any year almost in living memory by great disasters—disasters destructive of human life and property. Floods, storms, invasions of the sea upon the land have been of frequent occurrence; and in almost every instance they have been ruinous. Scarcely had our attention been withdrawn from the desolating storms on our own coasts, when we are informed of floods in Japan—floods which have been ruinous on a scale of unprecedented magnitude. And now comes this tale of horror from Canada. It does not appear that any one has been to blame. The unfortunate sufferers, however, are numerous; and they are entitled to our hearty sympathy.

THE fact that the farmers take no stock in free trade is a source of much disquiet to the advocates of that British policy. But the thinking farmer knows, for instance, that while in 1861 it took a bushel of corn to buy a pound of nails, a bushel now will buy ten pounds; that then it took 64 bushels of barley to buy a yard of broadcloth, while now the same amount will buy 20 yards; that it took a bushel of wheat to buy a yard of calico, while now a bushel will buy 20 yards; and so on through the list. And they know that this state of things is due more to the protective policy than to any one other thing. Hence they adhere to a policy which is profitable to them.

THE United States Circuit Court, in California, has discharged Marshall Nagle and states that his act in killing Judge Terry was justifiable homicide. The country will endorse this decision as just and right.

THE WEST VIRGINIA OUTRAGE.

No more outrageous political scheme has been engineered in the country than the manner in which the Democrats have attempted to count out General Goff in West Virginia. The determination was to deprive the Republicans at all hazards of the victory they won last fall by preventing Goff from assuming the position of governor, to which he was rightfully elected. It was necessary to throw out enough Republican voters to give FLEMING, the defeated Democratic candidate, about 200 apparent majority. How this was done is well illustrated in the method used in Mercer and McDowell counties, where forty-three votes were thrown out under a special rule made by the committee.

If a voter's name was on the pay roll of a certain manufacturing company in Mercer or McDowell county for a year next preceding the election, he was entitled to vote. If he was not on such pay roll, the committee held that he was non-resident of the state of West Virginia, and if he he was a colored man, was not entitled to vote. The committee assumed that every black man was a Republican, and when one could be found whose name did not appear on this pay roll, he was promptly ruled out as an alien and his vote was rejected.

Commissioner Mason, of West Virginia, in speaking of these outrageous attempts to defeat the will of the people, said the other day:

"Of course you cannot tell what the legislature of West Virginia may do. It is very close politically. Only one Democratic majority on joint ballot. In the state senate we have two, and in the house the Democrats have three majority, with the result above stated. On joint ballot there are 46 Democrats against 45 Republicans. Well, we hope we may find one honest man, politically, among the 46. The result for or against us will depend, as you see, upon one vote in the joint meeting of the legislature.

There are labor men on both sides, but the line is drawn very sharply between them in a party sense. They have already shown themselves. Republican or Democratic by their affiliations, but, of course, we cannot tell how the recent exhibition of political methods, simply because the Democrats have the power, may effect their future action in the case. The legislature will now settle the matter, and if against us, I can see no other course but submission to a grave political crime.

THE total loss to the Treasury of the State of Louisiana by the recently discovered defalcations is roughly estimated by the New Orleans Picayune at nearly $800,000. This was effected by the continued issue and negotiation of $300,000 worth of consolidated bonds that had been cancelled and retired, and by the mysterious disappearance of $454,000 in constitutional bonds which had been deposited in the Treasury to be exchanged for the consolidated bonds. In addition, large sums were paid out on fraudulent coupons. This is all that has been so far discovered of these stupendous frauds. It must be a very loose system of financial management that would make such swindling possible. The wonder is that it has not been discovered who were the swindlers, and the authorities do not seem to know what to do in the matter. Louisiana, which is already burdened by a heavy debt, can hardly bear this addition to it. But a State which derives a handsome revenue from a great lottery which deludes and defrauds people of other States, should not complain of being itself swindled.

THE many friends of Rev. R. H. Bosworth, A. M., Assistant Pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, N. Y., will be glad to learn that the degree of Doctor of Philosophy has been conferred upon him by the Correspondence University, 147 Throop St., Chicago, Ill., the only institution of the kind in the world, having over fifty professors and twenty courses. The distinction, we are assured, is the more valuable, as the usual honorary degrees are never granted by this University. Among its faculty are some of the most distinguished literary and scientific gentlemen of this country. It is non-sectarian.

THE people of St. Louis are in great luck. They are to be supplied with fuel gas manufactured from Lima oil, and to get it at five cents per thousand feet. If the stuff does not 'smell to heaven' and the meters do not habitually beat the record, such fuel is about as cheap as it can possibly be made. It may not be quite as good as natural gas, but then it costs only half as much.

AFFAIRS IN THE SOUTH.

The evil which most immediately and dangerously menaces this country just now is perhaps the oppression of the negro in the South. The drink evil is bad enough, but its settlement will be postponed. The importation of foreign labor is a desperate evil, but the Southern outrages involve a race war and hence will soon demand attention.

The situation in the South yearly seems to become more serious, notwithstanding the advent of Republicans to power. Thus far the desired effect of lessening these outrages has not been accomplished. It was believed that as the old secessionists died off their children would be more willing to treat the Negro as a fellow citizen. But even small children are being taught that the Negro is only a creature meant for abuse and oppression. An instance of this occurred the other day. A white child was compelled to beat a Negro child, the crowd standing by and keeping the parents of the Negro child from protecting their off-spring. So the probabilities are that the people of the New South will grow up to be more fiendish in this respect than were their forefathers. There are multiplying instances of such outrages, and it is said that in one county at least one hundred Negroes have been murdered by the whites within a year and no judicial cognizance has been taken of it. The facts are well known that Negroes who attended a Baptist convention which denounced such outrages were themselves assaulted when they reached their homes in the South.

The President and Congress should take the most prompt and aggressive measures to suppress this evil. It is a wrong which a free spirit and the constitution cannot permit long to exist. The black man has as much right to every privilege inherent in citizenship as the white man. It is a truth more prominent than any other in the constitution that all are equal in this respect. Then it is the duty of any party in power to compell obedience to this requirement of the constitution, by force if necessary.

A MOST notable newspaper agitation against the action of a court of justice is that which the New York World has prosecuted in behalf of Charles Giblin, who was a candidate for the wholesale execution at which four men were recently hanged in New York. Giblin's case was peculiar in many respects, and many prominent lawyers who had watched the testimony with professional interest agreed that the accused man had not been proved guilty. He was convicted, however, and sentenced to death. The World became Giblin's champion, and the appeal for Executive clemency was ably supported by Giblin's counsel. Governor Hill granted a respite declaring in effect that the conviction of this man was the most disgraceful instance of "railroading" that he had ever encountered. Since the granting of the respite this newspaper has been collecting evidence relating to the accused man's character and to the alleged facts upon which he was convicted. Yesterday the referee appointed by the Governor met the attorneys in the case, and on Monday next it is expected that the new hearing will begin. Giblin is wretchedly poor, and was in search of work when arrested on the charge of murder. His wife is in destitute circumstances, and the champion of the husband has proved the benefactor of the wife by raising a fund for her relief. The entire case of Giblin's appeal should go upon the records of journalism as a bit of enterprise in the right direction, and as one which deserves to be a paying investment. If Giblin is a murderer, it will be due to the active work of this newspaper that Mr. Fellows and his assistants shall have been compelled to prove him guilty.

NEW YORK is doing nobly in the World's Fair matter. Every little while a committee is appointed and resolutions adopted, but the side issue of raising money to carry out the affair languishes. Chicago is following out a different policy. She is raising the money first, and will look after the appointment of committees to expend it when that most important part of the work has been achieved. Two of her citizens have given $100,000 each to the fund, and others are liberal in proportion. This seems like a very sensible and efficient way to go about getting up a World's Fair.

Poetry.

In the Orchard.

The Autumn leaves are whiled away:
The sober skies look down
On faded fields and woodlands gray,
And the dun colored town.

Through the brown orchard's gusty aisle,
In sad-hued gown and hood
Slow passes, with a peaceful smile,
A maiden pure and good.

Her deep, serene and dove-like eyes
Are downward bent; her face,
Whereon the day's pale shadow lies,
Is sweet with nameless grace.

The frolic wind beside her blows;
The sear leaves dance and leap;
With hands before her clasped, she goes
As in a waking sleep.

To her the ashen skies are bright,
The russet earth is fair,
And never shone a clearer light,
Nor breathed a softer air.

O wizard love! whose magic art
Transmutes to sun the shade,
Thine are the beams that fill the heart
Of this meek Quaker maid.

Our Story Teller.

WRIGGLES AND THE THIEF.

MAJOR HAMILTON.

Last summer with three friends I spent some months among the Adirondacks camping in a cabin which we had built near Buck pond on the head waters of the west branch of the St. Regis. Our purpose was to gain health by a vacation in the woods, and if I should tell you how many pounds the party weighed in the aggregate when we went in and how many more we weighed as we came out, there would be no question in your mind as to the success of our plan. We were all good fishermen and fair hunters, and two of of us could cook reasonably well, so we were not accompanied by any guides.

It was our custom to decide each evening upon the sport of the day following, then lock up the cabin after breakfast, if no one was to remain at home, take a lunch and depart on our various routes.

Sometimes we fished all together, sometimes in two parties; and yet again two would hunt and two make the tramp to the nearest house, some eleven miles, and bring in fresh supplies; and each day found us busy at something.

Most of the time we were away from the cabin all day, and at first we felt no fear of marauders, but during the second month our suspicions were aroused.

Two or three times we had seen strange tracks in the soft earth near our camp, once the door and padlock which secured it had evidently been tampered with and at last we began to miss articles which happened to be outside the cabin.

Charlie Powell lost a rod which he had thoughtlessly left leaning against a tree one morning, and Fred Clark his pipe, which he was sure he had laid on the bench near the door. It became plain to us that some woods tramp was shadowing our camp with the intent to steal anything he might lay his hands on, and we put our brains to work to circumvent him.

Among other accumulations which we had made while in the forest was a large black snake which Dan Lyman had caught in the Madawaska swamp and brought home alive, and finding the fellow docile and fearless, we had fed him at the cabin and sought to induce him to make it his home so that he might be our house cat. For it is well known that the black snake will catch rats, mice, squirrels other small deer, much as the cat does, and many of the reptiles are domiciled in Southern homes for that purpose.

Although Powell and I had at first seriously objected to a snake as a boarder, the other boys laughed at us so much that we gave in and allowed Wriggles, as Dan had named him, to crawl about unmolested, and in a month's time he would come at call to be fed milk or eggs, of which he was very fond.

Usually at night he coiled up in one corner of the cabin, although several times when it was chilly I had found the rascal under the stove and driven him out. He was as partial to heat as a dog, and Lyman had at last made a box for him just inside the door and filled it with dry grass, where latterly Wriggles had slept at night. Several times we had heard him moving about the floor in the dark, but although he occasioned a great deal of joking as to what would occur if he should invade our bunks, thus far he had not attempted such familiarity.

We kept our eggs in a paper flour sack in one corner of the room, and it was evident that Wriggles knew it, for several times he had been driven away from its vicinity, but as yet we had not caught him in the sack, and so no change had been made. When we departed upon our daily excursions it was the duty of the last one out to see that the snake had left the cabin before the door was locked, lest he should do some damage during our absence, and it was only at night that he was usually to be found indoors. The evening after our discovery of the loss of the rod and pipe, we discussed many plans for capturing the thief, and at length it was determined that one or two of us should remain in camp for a day or so, concealed, in hopes that when our visitor next called we might be able to lay hands on him—and drawing lots for the first day's guard mount it fell to me, much to my satisfaction.

Of course the boys offered me all sorts of advice as to what to do and how to do it, Lyman even suggesting that I should climb a tree and watch from its branches all day, but I scoffed at their notions and promised them I had a much better plan of my own safely in my head.

Morning dawned bright and clear, and as my companions prepared for a fishing trip and visit to Long Pond, distance three miles, I half regretted that I must pass the day alone and at home. However, they soon got off and then I began to arrange matters for the success of my plan. First I left the key in the padlock as if by accident, and took everything of value within doors.

Then I prepared the upper bunk so that I might lie in it hidden behind the blankets, apparently tossed there carelessly, and see all that went on in the cabin. I proposed to conceal myself there and when the thief entered, as I felt sure he would, and began to pack up his plunder, to capture him at the muzzle of my gun.

Not that I expected to have to shoot. Probably that would never have occurred, even if the unknown had walked off when ordered to halt, but I felt sure that a fellow mean enough to be a sneak thief in the woods would also be a coward and so easy of capture if discovered.

Having thus planned my campaign I closed the door and seated myself near a window in the loft where I could see and hear without being seen and began my vigil. The day was glorious and all nature rejoiced in the fullness of ripened summer, The sunlight warm and bright fell softly upon mountain, lake and forest the birds sang, the waters rippled and the leaves whispered one to the other in the trees. The air was balmy and filled with the balsamic odor of the woods, the silence was broken only by sweet, restful sounds, and after a little I found myself half inclined to nap.

This would never do, and so I cautiously crept to a lower window, and having surveyed the approaches undid the door and stepped forth.

Listen as I might I could hear no sound of human presence, and the little scouting which I did through the near-at-hand timber resulted in no discovery but that of of a hedge-hog scutting up a tall pine in terror.

I returned to the cabin and again closed the door behind me. Probably during the time it had been open Wriggles had entered, but I did not see him, nor did he make himself known when I came in.

A little further watching from the windows, and drowsy and half disgusted with what seemed to be a fruitless guard, I climbed into the bunk, took a book and began to read.

I may have read a page, perhaps a chapter, but before long my heavy eyes closed, the delicious languor of the wilderness overcame me, and, all unprepared, I slept.

How long, I know not, doubtless an hour or more, when a sudden noise, like the falling of a heavy body, awoke me with a start, and I saw with wonder that the door was wide open.

Surprised and yet dazed from my slumber I sought to rise when to my intense amazement I found that I was bound hand and foot with a heavy cord; and even as I began to realize that I was the captive, not the captor, a harsh laugh broke upon my ears, and turning I saw standing near the cupboard in the corner a brawny negro!

"Ha! ha! Massa! You done wake up? Don't rise yit. Dar's no hurry. When I gits what I want I'll go 'way and yer kin sleep a spell more 'till yer frien's come home. They'll ontie yer. Don't rise yit, massa!" and again he laughed long and heartily.

"You villain!" I cried, "if you don't loose me this instant and clear away from here I'll have you in jail! What do you mean, coming here and tieing me in this way? Undo me!"

"What I mean?" he grinned; "I mean to clean dis yer cabin of all de stuff I kin carry, dat's what I mean. And I won't do ye no hurt ef ye keep still, out of ye aggervate me,—look out, I's a bad nigger, I is!"

The reprobate shook his fist and glared at me in such a manner that I believed him.

"See here," said I, "let me go and I will give you what you want if you'll promise not to steal any more. That's fair. Let me go."

He laughed again grimly.

"I won' steal no mo after dis time, massa, I'll promise ye; 'case why? I'm goin' to tote away ebery ting I want dis trip! An' I tell ye agin, don' ye talk to me no mo'!"

The man was growing angry and I deemed silence but prudence on my part, bound as I was.

The fellow was ransacking every portion of our camp and had already gathered a goodly plunder, which he was stowing in a pack basket intending to carry it away upon his back! He worked hastily, and I saw that he was much worried. Should my comrades return he would be surely caught, or should I work free from my bonds before he had gotten beyond my reach, I might follow, obtain help and arrest him.

These dangers he evidently appreciated, and so lost no time in his rascally work.

Already he had taken what he could find of provisions, our tea, coffee, sugar, baking powder and a few cans of condensed milk, when glancing about his eye fell upon the egg bag in the corner.

Striding to it he thrust his hand quickly into its open mouth to discover its contents, but no sooner had he done so than with a wild yell of horror he sprang back, his arm extended, and hanging fast to his wrist, where its fangs were imbedded, a great black snake, Wriggles!

"Pisoned! Pisoned!" he shrieked, while his face grew ashen hued with terror. "I'se snake bit an' pisoned!" and shaking his arm as if it were the limb of a tree, he succeeded at last in flinging the reptile from him into a corner, where he writhed and twisted and played his forked tongue, showing all the signs of snake anger.

"O Lord O Lord! I'se gwine to die, shure!" moaned the negro, while the dark blood fell drop by drop from his bitten wrist.

I saw my chance and seized it.

"Untie me and I can save you!"

With a cry of joy he sprang to my side, and pulling a sheath knife from his belt he cut the cords which bound me.

"O, massa! Good massa! Sabe me if ye kin an' I'll swar on de Bible nebber to steal no mo'! O, massa! Sabe me. I feels de pison creep'n' tro' my veins!"

"Give me that knife," said I, "an hold out your hand."

With a groan the fellow obeyed, and I cut a deep gash in the wrist where the snake's fangs had been, from which the blood ran in a little stream.

"Now suck that wound and draw all the poison out," I commanded, "and quick, too, while I tie your arm above here."

Most gladly he obeyed, while I bound a ligature lightly above his elbow. In fact I treated the bite exactly as if it had been given by a venomous instead of a harmless snake, and in thirty minutes had the negro's hand and wrist so bandaged and his arm so lashed that he was practically disabled. Then I commanded him to go outside and sit on the ground with his back against the cabin while I prepared something for him to drink to antidote the poison!

He obeyed, and such a mess as I fixed up! I had decided not to arrest the rascal but to take his punishment into my own hands, and most thorough I made it.

I mixed for him at least a quart of raw eggs and pepper, which I forced him to drink, followed by a glass of strong salt and water.

The result may better be imagined than described. Suffice to say that when the boys returned at about five in the afternoon the thief was just able to walk, his fright and his treatment having made him a very sick man; and after a thousand promises never to steal again, to return the articles already taken and never to forget me and my kindness in saving his life, we allowed him to depart, a sadder if not a wiser man.

Doubtless a night's sleep renewed the evil in him, for he did not return the rod and pipe, that we were never troubled by him again, and Wriggles was given one raw egg a day for his meritorious service during all the remainder of our stay in the woods.

English Marriage and Birth Statistics.

In connection with the marriage and birth statistics, the Pall Mall Gazette says, that each year 15 people out of every 1,000 marry. Of each 1,000 men who marry 961 are bachelors and 139 are widowers, while of each 1,000 women only 98 have been married before, and 902 are spinsters, 12 marriages out of every 100 are second marriages. The average age at which men marry is about 27, while the average age at which women marry is about 25 years. Out of every 1,000 persons 602 are unmarried and 53 widowed. Over one half of all women between 15 and 55 are unmarried. In all countries about 5 per cent. of marriages prove barren. Among the English nobility 19 per cent. are childless. Married women live two years longer than single ones, although 1 in 70 dies in childbirth. If the mother dies first, the father survives 9½ years; but if the father dies first, the survival of the mother is 11½ years, as an average. Two thousand four hundred and forty-one births occur in England daily, about 33 for each 1,000 inhabitants. February is the month in which the greatest number of births occur, June the month in which the fewest. The average number of births for each marriage is 4.33. In every 1,000 births 11 are twins.

The Queen in Wales.

Queen Victoria's visit to Wales appears to have been of a pleasant character. She was able to speak a little Welsh, and that pleased the people, who are proud of the fact that they have been able to preserve their language intact through so many centuries. It is now intimated that Her Majesty, the Colonel, will visit Ireland, whither she might have gone years ago, and so have become acquainted with the people there.

An Original Way.

The Lancaster County philanthropist, Elias Becker, who has made a will directing that after the death of his son the proceeds shall be expended in constructing a durable road free forever to public use, has set an example worthy of all emulation. How could he contrive a means of doing more good with his money to his fellow-men? The Philadelphia Press pertinently observes that good roads cheapen the cost of living; lessen the toil of man and beast, and the wear and tear of vehicles of transportation; promote social intercourse and good temper; increase the value of the lands they penetrate; and are a daily and nightly convenience and comfort to all goers and comers. We have no idea that any court of justice would venture to decide against the validity of this will if it should be contested. The common highway is the most important of all our ways. An understanding of this fundamental truth was the secret of Roman power. When the Romans conquered a province they made a road to it, and through it, and kept the road in repair.

It is a vast pity that so few men are found in any community willing to give money to make good roads; to see that the money is properly expended; and to do the work so that it shall stand.

An Unprecedented Adventure.

New York Special to Pittsburg Dispatch.

Among the disabled and weather-beaten craft which came into port today was the Italian bark Mici Nepoti, Captain Baqone, from Bangkok. The storm stove in four of her bulwarks, shifted her cargo, and stripped off her sails. But the most remarkable incident of the cyclone is thus narrated by Captain Bazone: "The gale struck us from north-northeast on September 9. The men had just gotten about their work when a heavy storm struck us. When the wave had passed over us and the ship had righted six men of the crew were no longer on board. They had gone off with the wave, and could easily be seen struggling on its crest. The next moment they disappeared in the trough of the sea. Swept on by the waters they neared the ship. The retreating wave dashed them up against the railing of the bark just as a second wave came sweeping on us. The men, however, had the presence of mind and strength to seize the railing, and after the second wave had passed over them to climb on board. All six were saved. I think our adventure is unprecedented."

What Invention Has Done.

In making bread boxes three workers can do the work of thirteen box makers by old methods.

In cutting out clothing and cloth caps with dies one worker does the work of three by old methods.

In leather manufacture modern methods have reduced the necessary number of workers from 5 to 56 per cent.

The carpet measuring and brushing machine with one operator will do the work of fifteen men by the old methods.

In the manufacture of flour modern improvements save 75 per cent. of the manual labor that was once necessary.

In making tin cans, one man and a boy with modern appliances, can do the work of ten workers by the old process.

By the use of coal-mining machines 160 miners in a month can mine as much coal in the same time as 500 miners by the old methods.

One boy, by machinery, in turning wood work and materials for musical instruments, performs the work of twenty five men by the old methods.

In the manufacture of boots and shoes the work of 500 operatives is now done by 100, a displacement of wage earners of 80 per cent. by aid of machinery.

In nailing on shoe heels one worker and a boy, with machinery, can heel 300 pairs of shoes per day. It would require five workers to do the same by hand.

A Long Horse Car Line.

The longest horse car line in the world will connect Buenos Ayres with the outlying towns, and when completed will extend over 200 miles. The rolling stock consists of five sleeping cars eighteen feet long, each with six beds, which in the day time are rolled back to form seats; four two storied carriages, twenty platform carriages, six ice wagons, four cattle trucks and 200 goods vans.

The Mississippi Editor's Turkey.

Some giddy creatures have sent us the defunct corpus of a dead turkey that looks like it had made about four trips through a cotton gin. We don't know why they thought we wanted it, as we are not running a bone yard this year. A sight of this turkey would make a wolf sit down and swear off and cry. Don't do it any more, dear friends. If you've got a straight, respectable turkey to send in, send it, but we don't need any mortuary records just now.

A Plight For a Fat Man.

The Philadelphia Record relates that William Johnson, a West Chester painter of considerable corpulency, has been engaged in renovating the Willistown school house, and a few days ago he sat down at one of the desks to eat his noonday meal. When he finished he found himself so tightly wedged that he could not get up, and he would have been held a prisoner but that he had a screwdriver within reach, and with the aid of this he took the chair and desk apart. This was certainly a plight for the fat man, but perhaps the reporter who got up this item was in a plight for news when he wrote it.

Tanning an Elephant's Hide.

St. James's Gazette.

It weighed about 1,200 pounds, and was about an inch and a third thick. After being put into a reservoir of pure water to green it, it was beaten for one hour every day with an iron on a large anvil. After being ten days in pure water it was left for another ten days in water with about 4 per cent of salt. Then it was replaced in pure water again for twenty days. During those forty days it was constantly in soak. The head and feet, weighing about 300 pounds, were then removed, and the skin hung on spikes in the drying room After hanging one day it was put in vat containg potash and a small quantity of sulphur of sodium in the following proportions: Water, 1,000 parts; slacked lime twenty-five parts; potase, three parts; sulphur of sodium, two parts. After being two days in this bath it was rinsed in pure water of a temperature of twenty degrees when it was again placed in the drying room. After this double operation was repeated three times the skin was ready to have the hair taken off. This operation occupied about one day's time, and gave about 75 pounds of hair. Another day was spent in cleaning and scraping. By this time it lost 30 per cent, of its weight. The operation of its preparation lasted two months and it went through the same course as cowhide, with the difference that each phase of the work took three times as much time. The skin should be stretched in the pit, and placed in the middles of cowhides. Six layers of powder are then thrown in; two first, two second, and two third layers. Altogether the tanning takes three years. The partition of time is thus: Becoming green, 40 days; worked, 16 days; preparation, 50 days; repetition, 60 days; first pit (double) 200 days; second pit (double), 300 days third pit (double), 400 days.

Why the Leaves Change Color.

If you wish to wish to know why the foliage will soon change from green to yellow, red and russet, read this explanation, which is given by an expert: The green matter in the tissue of a leaf is composed of two colors, red and blue. When the sap ceases to flow in the fall, and the natural growth of the tree ceases, exudation of the tissue takes place. Under certain conditions, the green of the leaf changes to red, under different conditions it takes on a yellow or brown tint. The difference in color is due to the difference in combination of the original constituents of the green tissue, and to the varying conditions of climate, exposure and soil. A dry, cold climate produces more brilliant foliage than one that is damp and warm. This is the reason that our American autumns are so much more gorgeous than those of England. There are several things about leaves that even science cannot explain. For instance, why one of two trees growing side by side, of the same age and having the same exposure, should take on a brilliant red in the fall and the other should turn yellow; or why one branch of a tree should be highly colored and the rest of the tree have only a yellow tint, are questions that are as impossible to answer as why one member of a family should be perfectly healthy and another sickly. Maples and oaks have the brightest colors.

Prodigious Moths.

The largest known moth in existence is the Atlas. Its average size is ten inches of spread of wing and its closest competitor is the Erebus Strix, a large gray moth of South America. The Owl moth, also of South America, is another prodigious fellow, and spreads about eight inches. But its size is not its only feature. It is so peculiarly marked beneath that any child readily recognizes the owl-like appearance of the outlines The two hind wings from the owl's head being eyed, and the fore part of the body represents the beak. In close juxtaposition to the owl is pinned the Death's head, a moth which derives its name from a mark on the back resembling a human skull. It is English, but it is claimed that in 1887 a specimen was caught flying in New London. This is easily accounted for as it feeds on potato vines, and many were imported that year. It is thought that the pupa may have been in the earth that came with the potatoes and the moth hatching out escaped and was captured.

A Letter Stamping Machine.

There is a letter stamping machine now on trial in the postoffice in Philadelphia for the past two months that cancels 24,000 stamps an hour. The postal officials report that they are well pleased with the works it turns out. The best a man can do with the old stamp is about 3,000 letters an hour. The machine works all details automatically and stamps clearly and accurately.

Judge (to police officer): Are you sure, sir, that the prisoner was drunk?" Officer: "Is it dhrunk, yer honor? Shure, af he ad shpoke through the tillphone the brith av 'im would have made the poles stagger."

ART WORK OF CONVICTS.

SOME OF THEIR PRODUCTIONS SAID TO BE STUDIES WORTHY OF VERESTCHAGIN.

Penitentiary work, or convict labor, does not confine itself wholly to competition with skilled labor, says a St. Louis auctioneer in an interview. There is scarcely a week that in some one of the auction houses a dozen or more of oil paintings, pastels or crayons, the product of convict art, are not sold.

There are some not to be sneezed at, too. One went last week entitled "Catching a Companion." It represented a prisoner in solitary confinement grasping the tip of a mouse's tail as the mouse was disappearing into a little hole between two large flagstones of the floor. A sequel showed "The Prisoners of Law and Love." The convict was the former, and the mouse he had won and held in companionship by affection, was the latter.

Another thing that was a study worthy Verestchagin was "Convicts at Dinner," in pastel. I saw "Driven to Toil," representing a gang of striped and manacled prisoners marching off under guards, sell for $6, and no artist of the painter's ability in civil life would have done it for $50, for it was more than a "pot boiler."

But the finest bit of work I ever saw from prison life was "Tearing Down the Gibbet." It was a scene wherein a closely guarded party of penal servitor—as evidenced by the prominent "broad arrow," England's patent mark—was dismantling a gallows tree, on which a prisoner had been recently hanged. He had evidently been a companion prisoner or an associate in crime with the wreckers, for even their hard countenances were softened by sorrow and an occasional tear. Two of them were a little aside, one seeming to be whispering to the other. "Poor Tom! I wonder where he is now."

It was poignantly expressive. It sold for a song, but $1,000 wouldn't buy it to-day.

Fruit for Food.

The acids and salts contained in most fruits have a wonderfully purifying effect on the blood, and, besides keeping it cool and healthy, eliminate many earthly salts that would otherwise be absorbed into the system, and finally result in chalky gout biliery and bladder calculi, and other diseases of a similar kind. Acid varieties of fruit are the best. As a rule, the healthy stomach will easily absorb any reasonable amount of fruit, taken at proper time.

Weak and abused digestive organs will have to be treated more carefully, but will ultimately grow accustomed to a fruit diet, and be all the better for it, To do good, the fruit must, of course, be properly ripe and quite sound if it is to be eaten raw. If for stewing, many kinds of fruit may be used in an unripe state, but in these cases they do not possess quite the same hygienic value as ripe fruit. Fruit that is fermenting should be rejected, unless it is made in to a comote, being thoroughly boiled and mixed with sugar Fruit that is warm from exposure to the sun should be allowed to cool before being eaten.

Another precaution, and one that is generally set at naught, is not to indulge in much fruit, especially if of a watery nature, after a heavy meal. As a general rule, the morning and midday meals are the best times for eating fruit, whether raw or stewed A really wholesome breakfast, and one on which children and young persons would thrive, consists of raw fruit and whole-meal bread, with milk or stewed fruit and porridge, or milk and farinaceous puddings.

As a rule, a fruit in the evening and after a mixed meal ought only to be lightly indulged in, for the average stomach will but rarely tolerate a heavy influx of such cold and unusual aliment as fruit. This is not the case if the fruit is eaten before or between the meal hours.

How She Cooks.

A servant girl who engaged herself at a certain place the other day said that she could cook. Her first trial was on the simple operation of making oyster soup. This is the way she did it: She boiled the oysters steadily for an hour and a quarter in a big black iron kettle, replenishing the milk as it boiled dry. Then she added a pinch of salt, at least a teaspoonful of pepper and lard instead of butter, and her soup was ready to do its fatal work in our stomachs.

Her mince pies were even more dangerous in their tendencies. There were solid chunks of tallowy beef in them as big as walnuts, to say nothing of whole apple cores. But words fail us when we come to her bread. Suffice it to say that it looked and swelled and tasted more like putty than anything that suggests itself to us by way of comparison.

Highway robber: "Shell out your money, stranger. I'll let you keep enough to last you through the day." Stranger: "I'm on my way to a church fair, sir, and have just $30. However, I can let you have——" "Pass on, poor fellow. You'll need it all."

Picnic Report Concluded.

We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Boyd Cowher and wife, a newly married couple from Fillmore, Pa.

W. R. Gray, chief operator in the Milton telegraph office, is on the ground enjoying himself.

Thursday evening a number of boys and young men were taken before the officers of the county Grange for disorderly conduct.

Callers at our headquarters were W. E. Huey of Coburn; Misses Hirsh and Charles of Mifflinburg, Rev. Hicks of Millheim; Miss Ida Grenoble of Spring Mills and many others.

One of the Mifflinburg boys, D. F. Gutelius, is suffering from a severe cold and headache and was unable to leave the tent on Thursday.

Frank Feese is also ill, he having been struck on the head by a piece of a tree limb which fell. He came out to sing, though.

The Glee Club rendered a serenade Thursday night, the programme being: "Saw my Leg off," "My Bonnie Lies over the Sea," in which Mr. Badger's tenor was very fine; "Star of the Eve," "Letter that Never Came"—cricket song, "Love Makes the World go Around," "Then You'll remember me," "Come to the Wildwood Church," "Lost Rose,"—baritone solo, "Gathering Shells," A cornet solo by Paulchies, entitled "Alene Alera," "Why did they dig ma's grave so deep," "Home, Sweet Home," by the Band. The trombone soloist, Mr. Blair, played most exquisitely. All the members of the Club are very fine.

Israel Hoover finds two of his farm bells missing—one is worth $10, the other $8. It is to be hoped that no one stole them.

Senator J. C. Brown, of York county was here and was expected to make an address on Friday.

A Word about the Exhibitors.

In reviewing the display made at the patrons' picnic the retrospection is very satisfactory indeed. There has seldom been such beautiful displays of articles of all descriptions on similar occasions. Of course, fertilizers are not the most agreeable articles in the world to handle, but usually the more they afflict the olfactory senses the better they are in quality, and the displays of these interesting articles made by S W Smith of Centre Hall must have pleased and even edified the farmers very greatly.

Of A C Drake's display of the high arm Singer we have said so much that we will not refer to it except to add that it was wonderfully attractive and satisfactory. Garritte, Master & Allison doubtless will win large trade to their establishment in Philadelphia by the beautiful display of clothing which they sent to the Central Pennsylvania exhibition; and D Garman & Son, as usual, displayed much taste not only in the arrangement of their goods but also in the quality of all they exhibited. J B Shannon & Son, of Philadelphia, contributed the only distinctively hardware exhibit and it was inspected with very much interest. The canned fruits which Thornton Barnes, of the Quaker City, displayed so temptingly, evinced what high art has been attained in the preparation of fruits in this method—attractive to the eye and doubtless agreeable to the taste, though we confess we did not taste them.

In musical instruments W C Gephart, of Millheim, was the only exhibitor, but it was as good as a half dozen exhibits and Mr. Gephart is to be congratulated on its excellence. S A McQuistion, of Bellefonte, is a gentleman who has given many years of his life to the work of building vehicles of nearly every description and consequently every article displayed by him was substantial and handsome. James Schofield gave his numerous friends an opportunity to prove what he can do in the way of making harness and when James has done his best there is but little left to do. It McCalmont & Co., do not provide every farmer with such implements as they want it is not because they did not display them to good advantage before the eyes of the admiring thousands. It afforded conclusive proof of the progress that has been made in agriculture.

Waldron & Sprout, of Muncy, Lycoming county, had a superior well driver on exhibition while T A Correll, of Harrisburg, displayed reapers of most beautiful and durable workmanship. Those buggies which make the average person long for a ride—so comfortable and easy do they seem—were placed there by T B and H A Taylor, of Mifflinburg. Centre Hall has at home a firm which can vie with any other in the splendid line of agricultural implements in which it deals. Shoop & Boozer is the name of that firm and they heard enough of praise to induce them to return next year. Mr. J H Manderville, of Mechanicsburg, confident of the abilities of the famous Walter A Wood binder to cope successfully with all competitors, brought it here from Mechanicsburg, and now all the people who saw it think of it as Mr. Manderville does.

J S Waite & Co., the home firm, were awake to the possibilities of making a fine display. To mingle among the agricultural implements which they had placed there proved this. The Superior drill which I E S Pierpoint of Harrisburg had to show was also just what is needed. There was machinery of all sorts even to the Wm. Deering & Co. grain and grass cutter, exhibited by H L Smith of Virginia. The cultivator by J H Hamilton and the Triumph Binder, by J A Correll, of Harrisburg, are indeed triumphs of the art of making such implements.

Jacob Meyer, of Penn Hall, made the display more interesting to all who looked at the washer and churn which he exhibited. There was a very fine exhibit of implements by Israel Hoover, of Unionville, and Swartz & Dubbs, of Bellefonte, had a variety of machinery to look at. All these enabled the farmer to gain new points even while he enjoyed relaxation.

Patrons' Picnic in the Future.

The Patrons' Picnic for 1889 is concluded. Had the weather continued fine it would certainly have lasted during to-day. It was by far the most successful in every feature held by the P. of H., and the only fact which prevented it from being an overwhelming success was the execrable weather which prevailed all the time. Calculating the number present on the greatest day—Thursday—at 20,000, it is only two-thirds of the number who would have been there had the weather been inviting. On the other days the attendance was not more than one-fourth what it would otherwise have been. This is sufficient to prove that the picnic as a week's exhibition is an accomplished and highly successful fact and an indication of what may be achieved under different circumstances. The managers of the exhibition have our congratulations on their success under such unfavorable conditions.

We have no doubt that they will profit by the experience and make such improvements and changes for next year as these facts suggest. By all means, hold it at a more agreeable time in the year. Avoid the equinoctial storms if possible. Nothing can be more agreeable than a social gathering of such proportions. The farmer and the townsman will both enjoy it immensely and it will be in every way conducive to pleasure and benefit.

A Family Gathering.

Have you a father? Have you a mother? Have you a son or daughter, sister or a brother who have not yet taken Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles? If so, why, when a sample bottle is gladly given to you free by any druggist; and the large size costs only 50c and $1,00?

—An exchange says: A general strike of all the miners in the district about Brockwayville, DuBois, Reynoldsville and Punxsutawney, Penn., is liable to take place very soon. The advances in the scale that have been granted in the adjoining regions is the ground for the demand. At one time the Columbus scale ruled that section, but the men at some of the diggings were always a little below the scale. This irritated them and now that the coal trade is prosperous and demands elsewhere have been successful, the effort is on foot to secure a raise of from five to ten cents in the Erie and the Rochester and Pittsburg colleries. Five thousand miners are in the district that is threatened.

If Washington could have had his way he would have been born in Chicago, and it is a matter of record that the old gentleman himself used to say to Jonathan Trumbull: 'Brother Jonathan, the moft ferious grief of my life is that the convention which renominated me was not held in the fumptuous Chicago Auditorium.' (Vid. Sparks's 'Life of Washington,' vol. III., pp. 198 et 220 et seq.)

Ada; "So you have been to see your husband's friends, have you, Lulu? And how did you like his mother?' Lulu: 'Oh ever so much, Ada. She made me feel so much at home. Why, in less than twenty-four hours after I arrived there she had me in the kitchen wiping dishes."

"Augustus," said Mrs. Henpeck, severely, "I see a woman down in New Jersey has been convicted of being a common scold. I should like to see any brute of a man try that on me!" "But you are no common scold, Maria," responded Mr. Henpeck, with a sigh. And Mrs. Henpeck is still wondering what he meant.

"That settles it," said a prisoner whom his honor sentenced to the workhouse for sixty days the other morning. "Settles what?" asked the officer to whom the remark was addressed. "I have been troubled in my mind whether to go down to Long Branch or up to Mackinac this Summer. Now I won't have to go to either."

Sweet September.

How bright the days are!
The solar rays are
No more oppressive, the nights are mild,
And clear the skies are
And gay the dyes are
In the maple grove and the woodland wild.

Schoolma'am and master,
Layman and pastor,
Are back from the mountain and ocean's shore.
Robust and healthy,
Although less wealthy,
And down to labor have bent once more.

The shore's deserted
Where couples flirted;
And the youth no more 'neath the starlight pale
His love confesses,
And the bathing dresses,
No longer flap in the noonday gale.

The crops that weathered
The rain are gathered,
The grapes are ripe on the burdened vine,
The yacht moored fast is,
And almost past is
The summer of eighteen eighty-nine.

Little Tom's Composition.

An English schoolmaster, writing to the Cornhill Magazine, gives the following composition written by a little boy from a very poor and forlorn home in London. No changes have been made in it:

A VISIT TO THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS.

Of all the animals in this world, Zoological Gardens is the most. You go in by a gate, and when you have got a bit way down, there they are all around you. Americy can't be nothin to it. They can't run and hurt you, coz there's a kage dropped over them all. They looked so vexed coz you can see all they do and can have a good stare all around at them, and they keep lookin in the corners to see if they can't find some bushes and things to hide behint. The lion, which is the king of all the animals wot ever lived, was so little that I shouldn't have noen it was him, only I have seen picters, and my mother said 'Look, Tom, now you can say as you've seen a lion.' Why he isn't quarter as big as an eliphent and he hasn't got no trunk. I think the eliphent could master him if he liked; but the big silly won't try, coz he's so kind and doesen't want to be king. The lion is yaller, but not so yaller as in the picter book what the board gave me He looks at yer through the bars like as wot he was saying 'You think you can fight, don't you, little boy, just coz of this blooming kage. If I could only skweeze through I'd swallow you and your mother too.' I said to my mother 'I should like to hear the lion aroaring just now when the keeper looked at him.' Then I nearly cried, I was so wild; why it wasn't like thunder and lightnin' at all. It just opened its mouth wide, like as yer seed men sittin' at their doors and a gaping on Sunday afternoons, and it yoped no louder than a apple-cart man does. When we got to the giraffs, I did not like them. They are just the same as the picters, only alive and walking about. They have little tails, but the giraffe is so big, that you'd say as they couldn't wag 'em. But they can, just as easy as a little dog can, whether yer bleeve it or don't. They look at yer so nicet, just like carves. The hippotimus is like a mashed eliphent with its trunk sawed off. Its skin is so thick that it can stay in its pond all day without the water soakin' through. It makes yer shivar when its eyes look up at yer. Its eyes are like bits of hard bright mud with no white, and bleedin' red skin all round. Kangaroos are so niced that you can look a long time at them without feelin tired. Their back legs are about four times longer than their front ones, and they are a lot too big behint. They sit up like dogs abegging, and they have a bag in front for their babies to roll about in. They run so silly, just as if they were trying to dance at the same time as they are runnin. The fox, wot I thought was as big as carves, isn't worth alooking at acoz of its size. Its not a bit of good its being sly where it is now, coz there's no farmers nor huntin men allowed in the kages. It looks as if it wanted to be sly but can't. When I said to my mother how it smelt, she said, Come along to the other animals, that's its slyness.' I like the eliphent more than all the uthers, and my mother let me have a ride. You feel as if you was in a ballon. My mother walked by the side and kept looking up and asking me how I liked it, but I couldn't tell her till I came down, coz I was rather frightened of talking fear I should slip off. The eliphent what I rode on is called Jumbo and it is the nicetist quadrerped as ever was seed. It looks as if it couldn't all of it die, it is so big. I held a bit of bread out to it, but it wouldn't take it coz there was a lady with a fine-dressed little girl who was agivin' it sugar buns. I kem away cryin,' coz I should have liked to have told the boys as I had fed Jumbo. But I didn't, so I can't say it. My mother and me then sat down and eat our bread and meat, and drank some milk she had brought in a ginger-beer bottle. My mother seemed to love me a deal that day, coz when we sometimes got to a quiet place, she would stoop down and kiss me a minit, and once she arskt me if I would allus love her and be a good boy. Why, in course I should; I don't love anybody else like her. My mother didn't seem as if she wanted to go back in the bus to our street, for she kept saying to me, 'Don't you think the grass and trees is nicet, Tommy?' and then I allus said, 'Yes, mother,' and looked at them coz she wanted me, I sat on her nee all the way in the bus, and went to sleep."

—An attempt was made a few nights ago by two unknown men, to rob a Mr. Imler of Beccaria township, Clearfield county. He was returning from Ramey where he had done some trading and when about one-half mile from Hegarty's X Roads, was attacked by two men on the road. One caught hold of the horse while the other stepped between the front and hind wheels of his buggy and demanded his money. Imler refused to give up his cash and a scuffle ensued, in which he managed to free himself from the grip of the first highwayman and by giving his horse a sharp cut with the whip the animal made a wild plunge and tore away from his accomplice. Mr. Imler made good his escape. He had $420 on his person at the time, and had not three buttons of his vest torn loose he would have been the victim and minus his hard earn ed money.

A Notable Planetary Conjunction.

The New York Herald says: In June last Mr. Marth, a member of the Royal Astronomical society, called attention to a remarkable conjunction of the planet Mars with Saturan, which will occur on the night of Friday, the 20th. It will be the closest conjunction of these two planets on record. To the naked eye the two stars may be expected to appear as if they coalesced. This conjunction will take place in the vicinity of Regulus, a star of the first magnitude in the constellation of the Lion. The Lion can be found by running the eye from the "pointers" of the Great Bear in an opposite direction to that in which the Pole star is found. This cluster is noted as containing the radiant point from which the great periodical meteoric shower of November diverge. The spectacle Friday night will be more interesting from the fact that the conjunction of Mars with Saturn will almost occult Japetus the outer satellite of the ringed planet.

March of Civilization.

The march of civilization in the far West has been attended by successive establishments and abandoments of garrison at Fort, Laramie Wyoming; Fort Lyon, Colorado, and Fort Hayes, Kansas, is significant of a marked advance of the line of settlement. It will not be many years before the waves of progress from the Paicfic slope and from the Mississippi Valley will meet and coalesce. Then the hardy pioneers of the land will have to look Northward or Southward for new territory to subjugate.

Dana Going to Spain.

Editor Dana, of the New York Sun, is going to Spain and it must be that he has it in mind to write up Christopher Columbus. The editor of the Sun is, indeed, a man for the task. If Christopher Columbus could have foreseen Brother Dana he would have discovered America a great many years before he died.

All for Seed.—A Western man, proud of his immensely productive acres, was showing a visitor from Vermont over his farm, and, while boasting somewhat loudly of his own crops, turned upon the Vermonter with the question: "You can't raise much back there on those stony Vermont hills, can you?" "Oh, yes, yes; we generally get fine crops." "But you don't raise much grain, do you?" "Oh, yes; we raise a sight of barley." "You do?" "Why, certainly; I don't know what our farmers would do if it wasn't for their barley." "Do you get much for it?" "Oh, we don't sell it; no, sir; we don't sell a grain of it." "You don't feed it to your stock?" "Oh, no, no; you don't ketch us wasting barley like that." "Well, what do you do with it then?" "Why, man, we save every grain of it for seed—that's what we do with it!" This is the Western man's story.

Benevolent Old Man: "What's the matter, my little man; what are you crying about?" Small Boy: "I ain't got no (bo-hoo) no mother, ner no father, (bo-hoo) no brothers, ner no sisters, ner (bo-hoo) no uncles, ner no aunts, ner no bo-hoo) ner nobody else.' Benevolent Man: 'Well—tut, tut—don't cry about that; you're just the kind of a man we'll want for President about forty years from now."

IMPOSSIBLE.—Merchant. 'You think your son would make a satisfactory errand boy, do you?' Mrs. Moriarity: 'Whativer'e do, sor, 'e do it very quick.' Merchant (turning to boy): 'James, take this note up to Captain Centrefield at the ball grounds and be back in twenty minutes.' Mrs. Moriarty: "Niver moind, Jimmy, Coom ahn home. It's not a bye they're wantin', it's an angel.'

Mr. Suburb: "Uncle 'Rastus, I wish you'd go over to my place and clean out my hen-house." Uncle Rastus (with a grin): "What! In broad daylight, sah!"

Gastronomic Item—Jones. "So you have sent off your cook?" Smith: "Yes, I've discharged her." "I'm surprised to hear it, as I heard you say she was such an excellent cook." "That's just the reason I discharged her. She cooked such excellent dinners that we ate so much there was nothing left over for supper. Her good cooking was her only fault.

GOVERNOR GOFF, out of office in West Virginia, the victim of Democratic fraud, will be a more potent influence in his State than he could possibly be in a Government Bureau at Washington.

THE free traders say that the tariff 'shuts us off from the markets of the world,' our total foreign trade for the year ended June 30, was something over one billion and a half dollars! The theory and the facts disagree—which is all the worse for the theory.

THE President has spent his last Sunday at Deer Park of this year's vacation. On Saturday next it is expected that he will return to Washington and the social and official drudgery of the White House. Though General Harrison has spent much of his time away from Washington, the vacation has been no idle holiday. He has traveled extensively and consulted local sentiment by conversation with representative men of communities through which he has passed. He has met the people, and everywhere his modest bearing and cordial appreciation of the popular welcome have made for him a good impression. At no time, it seems, has official business been neglected. At Bar Harbor or at Deer Park, the routine work progressed under the same personal direction as would have been applied to it had he remained at Washington. It has been a busy vacation, in which the President has been able to call more time his own than would have been possible had he remained at the Executive Mansion.

What the Pine Glenites are Doing.

PINE GLENN, Sept. 23, 1889.

Misses Mary, Maggie and Carrie Beates returned to Pine Glenn last Tuesday accompanied by two of their aunts.

Miss Nettie Midlam is home on a visit, but will depart for Williamsport next week.

Misses Emma Midlam, Annie Beates and Laura Zimmerman opened their schools last Monday. Report says they are doing good work!

Dr. Hayes, from Bellefonte, was at Pine Glenn last Wednesday to examine Mrs. Wm. White's eyes. It is feared, however, that her sight can not be restored.

Dr. Neff, of Snow Shoe, also visited Pine Glenn a short time ago.

All friends were sorry when Wm. Steward, Delavan Steward and Harn Beates departed for the "far West."

Rev. Dice, of the Lutheran church, will hold catechism class every Saturday at 3 p. m. in Messiah church. Everybody is invited to attend. The lessons will be beneficial and interesting. Rev. Bedford preached in the M. E. church on Sunday, the 22d inst. He told the people that if they did not know their relation to God they had better find it out. Rev. B. is not well, but he faithfully tries to discharge every duty, and this is the highest duty for every person.

Frost this [Monday] morning and we are afraid the corn will be nipped.

Joseph Yothers will soon be through thrashing. The thrashers then expect to go to Mr. Martin Veidorfer's and from there to Snow Shoe.

Mr. Jonathan Watson caught a bear in his trap not long since. Bruno did not want to be captured and showed fight.

Had a quiet little dance in our community last Saturday evening. We were not present, but it is reported as being a well conducted affair.

—The Nailers and Feeders at the nail works are to play a game of base ball next Saturday afternoon. The Nailers are L. McGinley, A. J. Taylor, Jno. Conner, James Stott, Jr., Chas. Hinkleman, H. Most of us Are.

She—"Oh, my tooth aches just dreadfully. I don't see why we cannot be born without teeth." He—"I think, my dear, that if you will look up some authority on that point you will find that most of us are."

"This is a good pear year," remarked the farmer to his summer boarder. "Yes," was the reply; "a good many people I know of are getting married."

The Art of Prosperity.

The Eureka man has been doing for some time past considerable advertising, and as I do not want to get all the good there is in this world, let my brother merchants take a word of advice from me. Some have said to me, "Well, you can afford it, it don't cost you anything." But listen. I do not get it for nothing. The Eureka Grocery store pays for every line of advertising it does, and I have not put a single column into the papers that has not paid two dollars for every one spent by myself or that would have to be spent by any other store in town that would attempt the same thing. And we are now just beginning to reap the full benefit of this labor.

Ask anyone at all acquainted with our business and they will tell you that it is constantly increasing; that it has constantly increased ever since we began, and that our success is due to newspaper advertising. I do not want to be the only merchant in town that can truthfully say that while all around us works are stopping, men are complaining that work is dull, that the Eureka is the only store whose business is not feeling the depression.

I am conducting three newspapers in this town and I can now speak from experience when I say to you that it will pay you to advertise in these papers; that it will help you much more than your wildest fancy dreams. I will set the Eureka advertisements into the remotest corner to give you the best place, or just the place you want.

People will read the Eureka articles any how, no matter where I place them. Now, believe me, "it is straight," I know it will do you good, and in the light of my own experience I advise you to try it, and if any of your customers want anything you have not got send them to the Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa., and we will supply them, and then look out. You may never get them back again, but if you don't we will blame that on Smith, that is if you are in the grocery trade.

Tell me not that advertising
Is at best an empty dream,
For its charms are more surprising
(and the Eureka man, who has tried it tells you plainly that its effects are far more astonishing.)
Than its dull old-fashioned practitioners could ever deem.

And which ever way thou turnest
Thou will find upon the whole,
Those who advertise in earnest
(Yes, we have only to glance at the most successful firms all over the country to see that those who do the thing properly)
Soonest reach the wished-for goal.

Would'st thou then a lesson borrow?
Would'st thou know the royal way?
Advertise then so to-morrow
(Don't let a little expense deter you; you are merely casting your bread upon the waters, and you will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that each to-morrow)
Finds thee richer than to-day.

Advertise then! No retreating!
Let the senseless crockers rave:
While your heart with hope is beating
(You will always find a lot of people in Bellefonte as everywhere else who are blind to their interests; but while you are making fame and fortune)
They will find oblivion's grave.

Printer's ink will lead the battle—
Printer's ink, the balm of life;
Printer's ink—no din, no rattle—
(No, it does it's work on the quiet; and in the great war of competition which is now going on in this town, when judiciously and thickly laid on, it always)
Leads the van against the strife.

Advertisers oft remind us
We can make success sublime,
Make our pile and leave behind us
(Exactly, that's just where it comes in. We not only expect to feather our own nest, but we at the Eureka hope to provide for the prosperity and well-being of generations yet unborn, and so leave behind us)
What defies the touch of time.

Seeing which, perchance another
Struggling man with weary brain,
Some non-advertising brother,
(A good example is always to be commended, especially in the matter of advertising; and many a struggling business man seeing the secret of our success)
May with wisdom try again.

Advertise then: Up and doing!
So advert a messer fate,
And, the wiser course pursuing,
(You will find that you will soon be in a position to look the world in the face, if you will only)
Learn to advertise and wait!

Of course, there are many ways of advertising, but we are of the opinion that there is no form or method so effective as newspaper advertising. It goes right into the home, and it goes to stay. I do not suppose that an "add" of "New Spring Goods," put in the paper and never changed the year through would do the work it should. I never tried that method. Such an "add" would have to do its most effective work, at least I should think, in the first three months.

Personally, we have always looked upon such work as a public notice that here is a careless merchant. But if you will take hold of this matter, and give it the same attention that you would or should give any other important matter, it can not do otherwise than pay. I speak to you in the light of a year's experience and "I am giving it to you straight."

Action of Waters in general upon the Human System.

We are agents for Centre county, for the celebrated Bedford Springs mineral water. Many persons in this county are now using this great remedy and all speak in highest praise of its worth. We have given you in a previous article quite a history of this great remedy, and we propose now to speak of the action of water in general upon the human system, to be followed by articles more particularly of the action of mineral waters, and the celebrated Bedford water in particular, what this water cures, and in fact all the information that can be desired upon this important subject.

The analysis of the water recently made by Dr. Henry Leffman, Analytical Chemist and Expert, is full and complete, and shows that the medicinal agents contained therein remain about the same as when analyzed by Dr. Church, in 1825, so far as the quality and quantity of magnesia, soda, lime and iron are concerned. He, however, calls special attention to the high degree of organic purity of the Magnesia Spring. There is no evidence of nitrates or nitrites or any fixed organic matter. The water retains its qualities unchanged for a long period of time.

Next to sunlight and heat, water is the greatest life-giving force in all nature. Man has been known to exist for weeks and months without food, but could not survive long without water. The human body is made up of millions of cells and these cells must be filled by water in order to uphold the ecomony of the human system in an approximate normal condition. All the organs of the body are influenced, and their action is either increased or diminished, according to the amount of fluid in the cell tissues. The whole organism is at once affected by the quality and quantity of fluid imbibed.

Physiologists teach that 58.5 of the human body is composed of water, and that no assimilation can take place by the kidneys or lungs without the free use of this agent. Neither can the process of digestion nor the absorption of food take place without first being diluted by water. Physiologically and chemically considered, water is therefore one of the most vital and important elements which enters into the composition of the system. By the action of this fluid on the blood all the tissues are nourished and all the fluids are formed, and all the processes of life take place. It gives mobility and activity to the muscles and nerves, and prevents their friction and premature decay. It is through the action of water on the bowels, kidneys, skin and lungs that all the worn-out and poisonous matter is removed from the system. Water is more rapidly absorbed by the blood than any other substance which can be introduced into the body, and it therefore more readily modifies morbid conditions with which it comes in contact. The action of water on the system is either that of a sedative, a stimulant, a cathartic, a diaphoretic or diuretic, according to the quality and quantity taken in a given time.

In our next, we will tell you about the action of Mineral waters in general upon the human system. While we are ready to supply you with Mineral water, do not forget that we also keep everything in the grocery line. Call and see us, at Eureka Grocery store, next door to Post Office, Bellefonte, Pa.

—The melancholy days have come!
With grief our bosoms thrill
As we light the gas at 5 o'clock
And calculate the bill,
Our future shows no ray of light,
But deeper grief we'll know
When we must rise at 6 a. m.
To shovel off the snow.

THE STAR COURSE.

It will Begin in November and Includes the Best Talent in America.

The ladies, with that indefatigable industry for which they are so well known and which characterized their management last season, have completed the preparations for their Star Course of entertainments. The first one will be the Irish National Concert Company on Friday evening, November 22. This company is composed of sterling artists, each one of whom is a soloist of recognized excellence, equally at home in concert and oratorio.

On the 13th of December will appear Mr. L. T. Powers, who is an entire dramatic company himself. He will enact the play of David Copperfield, assuming all the characters.

During January the Boston Stars will give one of their exquisitely brilliant concerts. With this company is Walter Emerson, whom Gilmore the renowned impressario, pronounces the greatest cornetist in the world.

On the 4th of February Rev. Russell H. Conwell, who lectured here last year on "Acres of Diamonds," will deliver his lecture on "The Golden Crown and who shall wear it."

Another great lecture will be the attraction in March, John DeWitt Miller, delivering his lecture on the "Uses of Ugliness."

April 8 will bring a treat—the Harvard Quartette, with which is Mrs. Dainty, the elocutionist, Miss Lufkins, and others.

The course includes the best musical talent in the Redpath Bureau of Boston. Conwell and Leland Powers are too well known to need a lengthy notice at this time. Mr. Miller has the reputation of putting his audience in the best of humor before he even speaks and he holds them throughout. The course ticket, which will include the first five mentioned, will be sold at the old price of $2. The Harvard Quartette tickets will be sold at the time, to those buying course tickets, for 25 cents extra. All others will be asked 50 cents, which is the regular price for single tickets. Student's tickets for the course of five entertainments, $1; including Harvard Quartette concert $1.25.

Summary of News from Milesburg

Several valuable articles of clothing were recently stolen from the clothes line in Mrs. William Thompson's yard.

Mrs. Lemma Bevarr paid Milesburg a flying visit.

Hon. Thos. P Rynder still tarries at Houtzdale.

Mr. Israel Bierly and family of Loganton, Clinton county, are visiting Mrs. B's parents at the home of Squire Geo. Gray, Sr., in this place.

A T Boggs, our genial store keeper, has been appointed postmaster. This is a surprise as Mr. Boggs was not an applicant. But it is following the excellent rule peculiar to Republicans—that the office shall seek the man, not the man the office.

The new county bridge was finished on Thursday and Mrs. Miles Draucker celebrated the event by presenting her husband with a pair of fine girls. Miles is away at Karthaus and has not heard of his good fortune.

The Evangelical church and Sunday-school celebrated Children's Day on Sunday. There was a large attendance and a successful time.

On next Saturday the preparatory service for Communion the following Sunday will be held by the Presbyterians.

Miss Annabel Denning, of Clearfield, is a guest at Rev. W O Wright's.

Harry Fulton, of Altoona, and G P A B Orris, of Bells Mills, spent Sunday in Milesburg, where they have many friends, they formerly having been residents of the burg.

The Milesburg schools began Monday. They will be taught as follows: First grade, Prof. J W Smith; second, A M Butler; third, Laura Taylor; fourth, Amelia Martin.

Miss Harvey, a Milesburg young lady, came home from the picnic on Saturday. She had been there several days, contracted a severe cold and was quite ill on Saturday.

Death of a Minister of the Gospel.

On Saturday morning at 20 minutes after 10 o'clock the death of Rev. J M Smith, a minister of the United Brethren church, died at his home in Coleville. He was 59 years of age and is very well known in this community where he had long been a resident. He had been a preacher of the Gospel in the U. B. church a period of thirty years, in the Clearfield circuit of the Pittsburg conference of the church.

He leaves five children—two of them children by his first wife and three by his second wife who survives to mourn the loss of her beloved husband.

Rev. Mr. Smith was in every respect a gentleman. He was highly intelligent and a profound Bible student. Because of an affection of his sight, from which he had long suffered, he could read but little, but his sermons were scholarly and excellent, drawing upon the rich stores of information which were in the treasure house of the mind. All of the family have our earnest sympathy.

The funeral services took place at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning at his late residence in Coleville; interment in Union cemetery.

News fresh from Houtzdale.

During the past week Houtzdale has been trying to out do her sister cities—socials, dances and festivals with a parade on Wednesday made the people of that burg feel proud of 'Modern Rome.'

Monday evening a surprise party was held in honor of Mrs. Plummer, proprietress of the St. Cloud Hotel. Many of the elite of the town were present. Prominent among the the dancers were Mr. Trumbauer and Minnie Row, F. Mullson, and May Eastmen, Claude Burley, and Miss Moore, Joe Riley and Agnes Row, Mr. Sarlach and Mattie Stephens, Mr. Brown, of Pittsburg, and Maggie Plummer, Wade Shurtleff of Cleveland and Kate Cook. The only lonely wall flower was your correspondent. There were others present whose names we did not procure. The best talent of Clearfield County was called upon to furnish the music, which was considered exceedingly fine. Among presents received by Mrs. Plummer was a handsome rocking chair given by the guests.

Tuesday night a ball was given in honor of Mrs. M. Hamilton, the same persons being present.

On Wednesday the population turned out en masse to welcome the Knights of the Golden Eagle. The procession formed on Hancock street with about 1,000 Knights who, after parading, spent the afternoon and evening in picnicing.

The members of the Episcopal Church held a fair and festival in Hannah St. during the afternoon and evening. The receipts were about $75.

HAPPY AND HUNGRY

For over five years I was a constant sufferer with that most terrible and annoying disease, dyspepsia. After paying out hundreds of dollars, the only medicine I found that would do me any good, was Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. Now I can eat well and am happy and hungry.—[EDITOR.

Health Officers of New York.

Members of the Board of Health of New York and Brooklyn and other prominent physicians who have visited Speer's vineyards, use Speer's N. J. Wine for their patients and in their own families, much on account of the iron (blood making property) contained in it from the soil on which Speer's vineyards are situated.—Tribune. Mr. Speer furnishes this wine and his Unfermented Grape Juice to Druggists.

—Next Sunday the beautiful renovated and redecorated Methodist church will be opened for worship. The frescoing is all completed, the polish to the woodwork and the upholstering will be completed by Wednesday and then the carpet will be laid. The event will be rendered additionally important by the presence of Rev. Dr. Reed, of Dickinson College.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

THE TOMB.

Solemn Services over the Remains of the late Rev. J. M. Smith.

On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the residence of the late Rev. J. M. Smith of Coleville was filled with a company of friends who had assembled to tender their respect to the memory of that gentleman, whose death occurred, as has been noticed, last Saturday. Several well known ministers of the United Brethren church were present and took part in the services. They had arrived from Altoona, where a conference of the ministers had just ended. The large company of people present evinced the high esteem in which deceased had been held.

The hymn, "My latest sun is sinking fast," was announced by Rev. W. A. Jackson, of Port Matilda, this county, and it was sweetly sung. Rev. H. F. Shupe, who is located in South Williamsport, offered a fervent prayer, especially suited to the occasion.

"Rock of Ages," that hymn which has brought consolation to so many thousands, was announced by Rev. W. W. Emenhizer, of Lemont, Pa., and was rendered feelingly. A full and appreciative sketch of his life and labors, was then read by Rev. L. W. Stahl, of Greensburg, Pa., and was followed by brief, pointed and expressive remarks by Rev. E. A. Zeek, of Scottdale, Pa.. Rev. J F Tallhelm, of Julian, Pa., and Rev. G W Noden, the pastor of the Bellefonte congregation, Another prayer was offered by Rev. A W Maxwell, of Williamsport, and the hymn "Asleep in Jesus," announced by Rev. John Craig, of Julian, was sung with that power and expression which brought out all its matchless beauty. The gentleman who had charge of these services was Rev. W S Stahl assisted by Rev. G W Noden.

When they were concluded the long line of vehicles took up the route of funeral procession to the Union cemetery in Bellefonte. It was one of the longest funeral processions that Bellefonte has seen for several years. The pall bearers were Rev. E A Zeek, J Y Tallhelm, W A Jackson, H Y Shupe, G W Emenhizer and A W Maxwell.

Four Selected Notes.

Application has been made for a charter for another National Bank at Johnstown. It will be styled "The Second National Bank of Johnstown."

Rev. Samuel Wilson, D. D., died at Streaton, Ill., Sept. 1, aged eighty-five years. He was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Alexandria fifty-seven years ago.

Frank Probst, a Clinton county boy of about twelve years, thought to have some fun by putting powder in a wooden match safe and touching a match to it. The explosion was greater than he expected, and as a result one side of his face was severely burned. He was lucky enough to escape without losing one of his eyes.

Misses Mary and Sarah Magee, two young ladies from Clearfield county, have gone to Oregon to seek their fortune. They are daughters of wealthy parents, and have a comfortable and luxurious home, but say they intend to be independent in their own right. They will each settle on a tract of public land near Salem, and propose to manage it and live upon it, as required by law, until their title is secured. They are both bright and intelligent young ladies, attractive in appearance, and both under 25 years of age.

RECLAIMED.

We once were factious, fierce, and wild,
To peaceful arts unreconciled;
Our blankets smeared with grease and stains
From buffalo meat and settlers' veins.
Through summer's dust and heat content,
From moon to moon unwashed we went;
But IVORY SOAP came like a ray
Of light across our darkened way.

And now we're civil, kind and good,
And keep the laws as people should.
We wear our linen, lawn and lace,
As well as folks with paler face.
And now I take, where'er we go,
This cake of IVORY SOAP to show
What civilized my squaw and me
And made us clean and fair to see.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

THE INCURABLE CURED.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT FROM A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

Cancer is hereditary in my family, an aunt on each side having died from this dreadful disease. In each instance the cancer was located in identically the same position that mine first made its appearance—just below the left eye and extending down the left cheek bone and nose. I was attended by the best physicians, but the case continued to grow worse under their treatment, and no hope of a cure could be given by them; they said: "I had better have my affairs for this life and the next arranged, for the cancer was liable to strike a vital organ at any moment, and at once bleed me to death. About this time, 1886, I met with Mr. Shirley, living near Due West, whose cancer was being rapidly cured by using Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) I then gave up the doctors and all medicines I had heretofore been using, and commenced taking S. S. S., and after using third bottle, I discovered that the scab had fallen off, and that those sharp darting pains, so characteristic of the cancer, had ceased, and the discharge was very profuse. In a few days it began to heal rapidly, and soon dried up. By the time I had exhausted the fifth bottle there was nothing left but the scar where the cancer had been, and I was a well man. The cure effected in my case is considered by my neighbors a most remarkable one, and clearly demonstrates the fact that S. S. S. DOES CURE CANCER. Swift's Specific is a boon to suffering humanity, and all I ask is, that those afflicted with cancer give it a trial, and like myself will be convinced of its virtues.

The Oldest Person in the State.

Eliza Jamison Stanton, a colored woman who lives at Buffalo Run, is, it is believed, the oldest person in Pennsylvania. She says that she has Indian blood in her veins. We have found out her exact age, which is taken from a record in a Bible now in possession of persons in Carlisle, Pa., near where this remarkable person was born.

The Bible record is that she was born on Christmas day, 1774, which would make her almost 115 years of age. She has a daughter, who is a widow, living in Tyrone whose age is 65. Mrs. Stanton is still vigorous, picks berries regularly during the summer, carrying them in buckets a long distance. People who know her well say she is good for ten years yet.

WORK FOR SCHOOLS.

The Practical Help which Bellefonte Purposes to Extend to Johnstown.

Go to work at once. You have read the strong and urgent appeal for the Johnstown schools. Twenty-five thousand dollars is needed at once as everything was swept away by the raging torrent and the children must be educated. The appeal was published complete in the DAILY NEWS; it was read to all the pupils in the schools, and they are going to work to help,—and that, too, in a very practical way. It is conceded that the people of Bellefonte should contribute at least $100 toward the desired amount. The schools have taken the matter in charge and the contributions will be made through the pupils. Now, friends of education, if you can give anything—from 1 cent to $1—hand it to a pupil of the public schools or to Mr. David Lieb, the principal, and it will be forwarded by him to the proper authorities at Johnstown. Let everyone give, even if the amount is small. Many small sums will be large in the aggregate.

Think of the children of Johnstown. No school building, no furniture, nothing for school purposes, while you are well equipped for educational work. The future happiness and worth of those children depend upon their educational advantages. All of us will suffer if they grow up in ignorance. Then think of the awful loss which they have suffered in other ways. Be as magnanimous as you possibly can, and quickly contribute that $100 for transmission to Johnstown. The sooner it is done the better it will be for all concerned.

First Omahan—'And did she return your love?'

Second Omahan—She did even better than that. She returned the ring I gave her and all the letters I had written.'

The Action of Mineral Waters in General.

In our article of yesterday we told you about the action of water in general upon the human system we now propose to have a word to say about the action of Mineral waters in general upon the human system. Mineral water, in the true acceptation of the term, is one which by virtue of the ingredients contained therein acts upon the human system as a medicine. The true origin of mineral springs is still a mystery to philosophers. Most writers, however, hold to the opinion that mineral springs derive their flow from the fall of rain, or are the result of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. The solvent power of water is unequalled by any other fluid, and no rocks, however compact, can resist its action; it will penetrate every crevice and fissure of the earth. Water falling from the clouds and passing deep down into the earth filled with mineral rocks and beds, its solvent power absorbs and and takes up the various salts in all their freshness and chemical purity, and it again bursts forth from Nature's labratory to restore failing health and wasted energy, and when thus loaded with mineral agents it stimulates the arterial and venous currents, opens the pores of the skin, increases the flow of urine, washes out the alimentary canal, and gives tone, mobility and energy to the whole body, and is highly essential in the process of digestion, of absorption and secretion.

In our next article we will speak of the action of the celebrated Magnesia water from the Magnesia Spring of Bedford upon the human system, this is the water that we keep for sale at the Eureka Grocery store, High St., Bellefonte, next door to post office.

Fresh groceries always on hand. Call and see us.

Proceedings of the Prohibition County Convention.

BELLEFONTE, PA., SEPT, 19' 1889·

The Centre County Prohibition Party Convention met in the Court house at 10,15 A. M. to-day.

County Chairman Walter Gray called the meeting to order, and read the call, and requested Rev. J. W. Bedford to offer prayer, after which Rev. A. K. Felton of Philipsburg was appointed temporary chairman and E. T. Burnside of Bellefonte temporary secretary. A committee of three, consisting of C. Dinges, W· Gray, and C. H. Else, was appointed to ascertain who, and how many delegates were present, when it was found that 36 were in attendance representing various sections of the county.

A committee of five was appointed to name permanent officers for the convention, consisting of F. Guss, J. Zeigler, C· W. Dana, A. E. Clemson, and R. D· Showalter, who reported as follows, viz: A K. Felton for President J. W. Bedford. G. W. Bouse, Wm. J· Dale, Vice Presidents, J. Zeigler Secretary, and Walter Gray Assistant Secretary.

A committee on resolutions and platform consisting of Gray, Dinges, Fisher, Cook and Guss was then appointed, who submitted the preamble and resolutions adopted at the convention held in Unonville, on the 20th, of last month and published in the Daily News of August, 22nd, and most of the county papers, as the platform of the Prohibition Party in Centre County, together with the following resolution; viz·—"That, we hereby endorse the platforms of the Prohibition Party, State and National." The report was accepted and the platform adopted as a whole. while the last named committee were arranging their work·

Calls were made for reports from delegates to the State Convention at Harrisburg, Aug. 28th ; which were responded to by J W Bedford, F Potts Green, and J Zeigler. A motion was passed that when the convention adjourns, it will meet again at 1 o'clock and that the work of nominating a County ticket be immediately taken up, to permit those delegate who desired to leave at 2.30 o'clock to participate in the same.

The report of the committee to formulate rules for the governing of future conventions was then submitted by Dr. Isaac Guss which was accepted and adopted seriatim. The convention had proceeded in this work as far as section I, Article 1, when a motion to adjourn suspended the business of the convention till 1 o'clock p. m.

Promptly at that hour the chairman called on Rev G W Bouse to offer prayer, after which the following candidates for the various offices to be filled in the county, were unanimously nominated viz: For Associate Judge, Wm P Fisher of Union township; For District Attorney, H H Harshberger of Bellefonte; for Prothonotary, Geo W Ganoe of Philipsburg; for County Surveyor, Sam'l J Dale of Benner township; for Coroner, W S Bigelow of Philipsburg. The regular order of business being suspended; finances were called into consideration when it was voted to raise a fund of $100, to defray the expenses of the convention, redeem the pledge to the State and to carry on the present campaign.

The amount was immediately raised in pledges and cash.

The second section of the rules to be adopted, was read and after due consideration adopted. This, together with the considering of the fourteen additional sections which constituted the code occupied most of the remainder of the time.

The county committee for 28 precincts was then named, the remainder being left for the incoming chairman to supply, according to the rules adopted.

The appointing of a County Chairman next occurred which did not seem to be an easy task to accomplish. F. Potts Green was unanimously elected chairman.

A motion was carried to empower the county chairman to have 500 copies of the Rules printed for the use of the party workers.

The matter of supporting a county paper was also discussed very favorably and Dr. Isaac Guss was appointed to see after the project.

The convention was an entire success, twice as large as last year and devoted almost exclusively to business, speechmaking and enthusiastic indulgences being dispensed with.

Adjourned,

A K FELTON, President.
J ZEIGLER. Secretary.

Swept by the Tide of Popularity

To the topmost pinnacle of success, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stands a shining proof of what genuine merit, backed by the living force of proven facts, can attain. The North and South American continents, Europe, Australia, the West Indies, Guatemala and Mexico have all contributed wide patronage and testimony of the most favorable kind—but unsolicited—to swell the reputation of this sterling remedy. Among the maladies for which the most convincing public and professional testimony proves that it is a benign curative, are chills and fever, billious remittent, dumb ague and ague cake, dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervousness, debility, kidney and bladder complaints. It mitigates the infirmities of age, hastens convalescence, has a tendency to prevent ill consequences from exposure and exhaustion. Persons of sedentary habits and laborious occupations will find it an ever useful tonic.

Dr. Monroe's Church in Altoona.

The First Methodist Episcopal Church in Altoona, of which Rev. D, S. Monroe, D. D., is pastor, is said to be in a more prosperous condition now than ever before. The Conference News says of it: It is surely gratifying that this year will be an exception to the unbroken record of the past· The church is free from debt and the collections for the ordinary expenses of the church have been larger than ever before. This church is, indeed fortunate in its pastor, the Rev. D. S. Monroe, D. D., who is an untiring worker and who has the confidence and esteem of his membership and the people generally. Since his pastorate, the congregations have been unusually fine and regular· Frequently additional seats have had to be provided to accommodate those who desired to hear him. His sermons are able and scholarly, without any diminution in point of merit from one Sunday to the other. Always entertaining hnd instructive he gives his hearers something to take home with them, talk about and think over. A great lover of young people he has them organized in an Oxford league and its fruits will tell on the future prosperity of the First Church. The church is growing in membership, and outside of the probations from last winter's revival, numbers have united with the church by certificates and on probation since Dr. Monroe has become pastor. Brother W. Lee Woodcock, of this church has established a very promising Sunday School in the Seventh Ward, in the eastern part of the city, and every indication is favorable to the securing of a lot and the erection of the Sixth Methodist Episcopal Church in Altoona. Methodism is nothing unless it is aggressive; it plants its banner in front of the battle and calls upon all to rally to the standard. The First Church has imbibed this earnest spirit under Dr· Monroe, and this year will mark the most prosperous one in its history.

To Our Neighbors.

The question is often asked by our neighbors, "Where I wonder, can I get a pure stimulant?" It is a fact that there is scarcely a roof under which you can not find a stimulant of some kind. Old people prolong life with it; sick people have it to sustain life; well people may and do use it to make life more enjoyable, but where will we advise our readers to buy it? We learn from the most reliable source that Max Klein is one of the most popular and respected citizens of this country. At his home his word is taken unhesitatingly. To him we can cheerfully recommend our readers for anything in the liquor line. He authorizes us to say that for $1.00 you can buy one quart of six year old rye, or six quarts for $5.00. His "Silver Age" at $1.50 per quart is without doubt the best whiskey know. Send for price list and complete catalogue. His address is, Max Klein, 82 Federal St., Allegheny, Pa.

Funeral of Hon. S. H. Reynolds.

From the Lancaster Weekly Examiner we copy the following account of the funeral of Hon. Samuel H. Reynolds, which took place on Thursday of last week:

The body was removed from the house to St. James' Episcopal church. Bishop Knight, of the Milwaukee Diocese, formerly Rector of the St. James,' conducted the religious services impressively. The Lancaster Bar was largely represented and paid their last tribute of respect and honor to their dead associate.

It was the wish of the family that no display be made, and no Masonic services were held. The carriers of the casket were six city policemen. The following were pall-bearers:

Chief Justice Paxson, of Philadelphia; Justice Green, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, of Easton; Hon. J. B. Livingston, Hon. D. W. Patterson, Chas. E. Pugh, General Manager P. R. R; Wm. A. Patton, General Assistant to president of P. R. R.; George R. Jackson, of Bellefonte, Pa.; Senator J. Donald Cameron, Wm. Aug. Altee, Esq., George W. Childs, Philadelphia; D. G. Eshleman, Esq., and H. E. Slaymaker·

The Jewish Holidays.

The Jewish people are preparing to properly observe the 26th of this month and the 5th proximo, each being a holiday of no little importance in their calander. At sundown on the eve of the 26th of September, or more explicity, in the evening of the 25th, opens the Jewish new year 5650. There are very interesting services connected with the observance of this day which will be indulged throughout the globe. October 5th is Atonement Day, also held very sacred by the Hebrew.

An Untimely Death.

There are few deaths that seem more sad than that of James A Gunsallus, which occurred at his home near Beech Creek on the 23d of August last. He was a stout, healthy man, about thirty-six years of age; very industrious, and took great pride in beautifying his home and making it pleasant for his family.

Mr. Gunsallus was a carpenter by trade, made good wages and was scarcely, if ever, out of employment. His sickness was brief, ailing only about two weeks with typhoid fever. Hope of his recovery was being entertained when bilious cramp set in and in a few days caused his death. He was married to a daughter of ex-County Commissioner Joseph W Hubbard and leaves a wife and four children—two boys and two girls. Mrs. Gunsallus is a woman of many good qualities and has a host of sympathizing friends; yet she has sustained a great loss and realizes a sorrow that nothing this side of Heaven can heal. The funeral of James A Gunsallus took place on August 25. The services were held at the house and were conducted by Rev. H R Bender, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, Lock Haven. Mr. Gunsallus being a prominent member of the I. O. O. F. he was buried by them with great honor. Interment was made in Eagleville cemetery. He was a good man in every way.—L. H Democrat".

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at W. C. Keplinger & Co's Drugstore.

About the Picnic.

Mr. C K Sober, the excellent marksman, is earnestly in favor of making the Patrons' picnic a still more permanent and attractive institution by the purchase of the grove in which it is now held and the fitting up of the grove in a more inviting style. He would also favor the arrangement in or near the grove of a place for amusements and sports of various sorts. He would be one, he says, to take stock in such an enterprise. It is a suggestion which has merit in it and is worthy the consideration of the managers.

We also entirely approve the suggestion made in the Gazette that the picnic be held at a more favorable time in the year than at present. The experience, this year, has been one of either drowning or freezing, which was not altogether agreeable.

Card of Thanks.

If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expression of gratitude which come to him daily from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair sized book. How much better to invite all to call on any druggist and get a free sample bottle that you may test for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

State Millers Association.

At the annual meeeting of the State Millers' association, held in Chambersburg Tuesday, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year B. F. Isenburg, Huntingdon; first vice president, Cyrus Hoff, of Lewisburg; second vice president, Joseph Bosler, of Ogontz; secretary and treasurer, Landis Levan, of Lancaster. There were 150 members in attendance and the report of the secretary showed the association to be in a prosperous condition with a large number of applications for membership at the present meeting. Wednesday the association went on a complimentary excursion to Gettysburg, and Thursday took a trip to Luray.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

—The visit of the Mifflinburg band to Bellefonte on Wednesday evening was very much appreciated by music lovers here and wherever the band went they joined in with the small boy in following it. On the Diamond the band rendered numerous airs which were varied in character and all most excellently executed. They afterward played in front of the Bush House and continued to render the air musical in various parts of the town until quite a late hour. They departed this morning. The band is excellent in every respect and a repetition of their visit will be very agreeable.

Sunshine on Wednesday

SOME OF THE FEATURES OF THE DAY ON THE PICNIC GROUND.

Many People Present, Much Music and General Good Feeling.

WEDNESDAY AT THE PICNIC.

And now the picnic begins. People are passing in from every quarter. Hawkers, butchers, fakirs, etc., are in their glory. The sun had a reviving effect on every one, and when we reflect it is indeed wonderful that everyone endured the long rain with such good humor. In respect to the extent and social features this gathering will take precedence of any ever held in this county—if pleasant weather continues.

The crowd maintains good order, there having been very few disturbances of the peace to date.

SOME OF THE STOCK.

The calves and pigs belonging to Geo. N. Musser, of Graysville, Huntingdon county, are certainly among the finest on the ground. The calves are blooded Jerseys. The sow and pigs are thorough Poland China. The sow is two years old and weighs 700 pounds while the pigs are but five weeks old and each one weighs over fifty pounds. They are much admired.

John Reeser, of Buffalo Run, has a very fine Percheron horse on exhibition.

MUSIC IN THE AIR.

The Mifflinburg band was on the ground to-day. They remained until the 4.15 train left for Bellefonte. On Wednesday afternoon they gave a most enjoyable concert in front of Keller's boarding house and the Republican headquarters. The concert began with an overture—"From Dawn to Twilight," which is one of C. W. Bennet's masterpieces. This was followed by "Sounds from Erin," also by Bennet. No. 3 was "Ollo Porida," an esquisite musical melange by T. H. Rolliston. The fourth and fifth were coupled together. They were, first, "Let all Over," by A. Andres, and second "Down deep in the Cellar," by Hineman. A lively galop was then given. It was "On a Spree," music by the leader, C. Schull. When the final sweet notes of this selection had died away Mr. D. C. Keller made them a rousing speech and they soon departed for the train for Bellefonte to spend Wednesday night.

The Tusseyville Band also helped to make the picnic air musical.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

All the sly gentlemen who try to "go through" the crowd are suppressed as soon as possible. Two fakirs attempted to manipulate the soap racket—pretending to put money in the packages. The gullible people were being defrauded of their money when three or four policemen swooped down on the soap men. A fight ensued, the result being several black eyes. Another swindler is also putting in the time to his own financial profit, and a similar scuffle will probably take place in his direction before long.

The Tusseyville Band delights all hearers with artistic serenades. They have their own special grand stand from which to give concerts. It is located at about the centre of the ground.

There were about 3,000 persons on the ground on Wednesday.

C. K. Sober, whose skill as a marksman is well known, gave an exhibition. Editor Kurtz introduced him in an appropriate speech. He turned suddenly and shot, missing once and hitting twice. He shot by looking at the mark in a looking glass. In short, he succeeded well with the most difficult attempts.

Bellefonte is well represented at the picnic.

This (Thursday) morning about 1,000 people came in the special train from Bellefonte and hundreds of others in private conveyances.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company—A. C. Drake, the local agent, has charge, assisted by Mrs. Belden, of Philadelphia; Mr. L. W. Tolman, of Williamsport, and A. C. Moore, of Milesburg. Mrs. Belden is a mistress in the art of executing fancy work. She has exhibited specimens of her skill in all parts of the country and the ladies never fail to gain valuable points from her.

The Mifflinburg Glee Club gave an excellent concert Wednesday night. It was magnificent, the selections included choice parts of several operas. The glee club usually are known under the name of "Night Owls," and are composed of Messrs, Frank Seese, R. E. Snodgrass, F. M. Reed, Boyd Miller, John Gutelius, H. C. Young, H. P. Derr, Samuel Blair, and T. E. Bodger.

EXHIBITOR SMITH.

S. W. SMITH, OF CENTRE HALL, OPENS A NEW FIELD AT THE EXHIBITION.

A new field of usefulness has been opened at the Central Pennsylvania exhibition by S W Smith, of Centre Hall, which will give manufacturers an excellent opportunity to exhibit their wares at a very low cost. He pays all expenses for exhibiting, advertising, etc, after the goods reach the railroad station at Centre Hall, and when not sold the articles are reshipped. He distributes circulars in the most judicious manner and understands the art of advertising. Parties exhibiting through him can feel assured that their best interests are cared for and the implements or machinery operated in the best possible manner. Mr. Smith's quarters are most prominently located, and his undertaking cannot help but prove a prize to exhibitors and help build up the exhibition. The project is favorably spoken of by the heads of the various committees.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at W. C. Keplinger & Co's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

Everybody There.

THE MIGHTY OCEAN OF A THROBBING POPULACE WHICH PEOPLED THE PICNIC GROUND ON THURSDAY.

Speakers, Accidents, Sports and Cold Winds.

THURSDAY'S STORY OF THE PICNIC.

What an event was Thursday at the picnic! The steert leading all the way from the depot to the grove—a half mile or more—was thickly covered with people coming and going. The grove' which is beautiful and large, was also a hive of humanity. There the people are living in tents, arranged like a little town with avenues between. The other buildings, used for various purposes, made quite a settlement in the grove.

Everybody was there and the estimate of from 15,000 to 20,000 is but a modest one. The main attraction was people. They were everywhere, and all having pleasure.

The marvelous exhibition of marksmanship was made by Mr. C. K. Sober. It is said that he far surpasses either Bogardus or Carver and those worthies are afraid to meet Mr. Sober.

His marksmanship feats included every variety of aim. They were witnessed by thousands who considered them marvelous. Among them were the following movements:

Right shoulder single, 2
Left " " 1
Right shoulder double 2
Left " " 2
With one arm, single 1
" " " double 2
Spinning on his trap, single 1
" " " " double 3
Back to trap, single 1
" " " double 2
Taking gun from ground, single 1
" " " " double 2
Gun tossed to him, single 1
" " " " double 2
Tossing up gun, turning once around single 1
Tossing up gun, turning once around double 2
End for end, single 1
" " " double 2
Double turning gun once around before 2
Single, gun upside down over head 1
Double " " " " " 2

In thirty-five such shots only one was missed.

In another total of fifty shots he missed only two. These included shots while lying in his back with his head toward the trap, handling the gun with one arm and one foot, etc.

Excursions on Thursday afternoon comprised an address by Hon. Leonard Rhone, followed by speeches by Isaac Frain, of Jacksonville, and Col. Thomas, of Williams Grove.

A decided attraction in the line of carriages and buggies are those exhibited by H. A. Taylor of Mifflinburg. It is said that a Derry spring, such as is used in these vehicles, was never broken.

The Temple Museum continues to coin money. It has figures of Clay and Cleveland, Indians and murderers views of the Johnstown flood, etc. Then there is a performance of a negro with some high-sounding eastern name who dances on glass and on swords, a lady mind reader who tells people that their watch chains are brass, etc.

An accident occurred on Thursday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock. The merry-go-'round was filled with people when it broke down and George Condo, a son of Michael Condo, who was standing near assisting to supply the motive power, had one of his arms broken in three places. He suffered intense pain, but his arm was set and it is believed that the terribly injured arm will be restored to its usual usefulness.

PICNIC PERSONALS.

M L Rishel, Esq., of Gregg township, is on the ground to-day, greeting his numerous friends.

Tent No. 132 is filled with young people from Shingletown. They are Misses Sadie and Nora Hess, Bella and Blanche Felty, Nora Burchfield, Mrs J B and Mrs John Felty and Messrs. Ira and Newton Hess.

E B Westfall, railroad superintendent of the L and T Division of Penna R R., is here in person. Mr. Westfall has pitched his tent opposite the railroad depot.

The trains ran all times of day. The only way to watch a train was to go to the station and wait until it came along. They were generally one or two hours late.

The cold was quite severe and everybody shivered.

Prof P H Meyer, of Linden Hall, was here shaking hands with his many friends.

Mr George W Musser, of Grayville, was out looking for feed for his stock on Thursday morning, as it was stolen from him the previous night.

Michael Hess, of Boalsburg, made his appearance on the ground early to look after the young people.

Misses Lizzie Weaver and Venie Shope, of Bald Eagle Grange No. 151, called and looked at the large peach which is in possession of yours truly.

Samuel Kelley, of Potters Mills, paid our headquarters a profitable visit and left a very fine peach. There were some on the tree which weighed an ounce each.

Mr. Emanuel Brown, of Spring Mills, very much pleased us with a call on Thursday.

The Singer Exhibit at the Fair.

Among the various exhibits of machinery now on exhibition at the Grangers Picnic at Fort Woods, Centre Hall Pa., we find exhibited the latest high arm Singer machine by The Singer M'f'g Co., in all of the latest and most improved styles. The operator in charge informs the reporter that they are now making three distinct machines for family sewing—the oscillating Singer which is claimed to have many advantages over any other machine now in the market; and the Singer Vibrator, No 2. This is claimed to be a departure from the ordinary so-called shuttle machines and the automatic chain stitch single thread machine. We were very much interested in the beautiful samples made on these different machines. Among those noted is a banner with coat of arms of Penn'a, and other handsome pieces which time and space will not permit of our mentioning to-day. Anyone will be amply repaid to visit these quarters and get a souvenir made by Mrs. Belden of Philadelphia Pa., by whom we also learned the samples on exhibition were made.

A. C. Drake, Agt, of Bellefonte, Pa. assisted by A. C. Moore, Agt, of Milesburg, were kept very busy explaining the many merits of the machine.

L. W. Tallman, manager at Williamsport, Pa, who was in attendance, has gone, we are told to assist in a similar exhibition now in progress by this company at the Agricultural fair at Danville, Pa.

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

The Only Non-Alcoholic Vegetable Medicine put up in Liquid Form ever discovered.

It is not a vile fancy drink made of rum, poor whisky, or refuse liquors, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, but a purely vegetable preparation, made from native California herbs.

Twenty-five years' use have demonstrated to millions of sufferers throughout the civilized world, that of all the medicines ever discovered Vinegar Bitters only possesses perfect and wonderful curative effects upon those troubled with the following diseases, viz:

Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Neuralgia, Headache, Boils, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Jaundice, Gout, Piles, Biliousness, and all other diseases arising from blood impurities, and as a Vermifuge it is the best in the world, being death to all worms that infest the human system.

It is always safe to take at any time, or under any condition of the system, for old or young or for either sex. It is put up in two styles. Each kind is distinctly marked on top of cartoon.

Many families keep both kinds on hand, as they form a complete medicine chest.

As a Family Medicine, for the use of ladies, children and men of sedentary habits, the New Style Vinegar Bitters has no equal in the world. It is invaluable for curing the ills that beset childhood, and gently regulates the diseases to which women at every period of life are subject.

I have just used three bottles of Vinegar Bitters, and it has done me more good than the springs. It is the best medicine made."

JOSEPH J. EGAN, of No. 75 West St, New York, says: "Have not been without Vinegar Bitters for the past twelve years and consider it a whole medicine chest in our family."

MRS. MATTIE FURGUSON, of Dryden, N. Y. says: "Vinegar Bitters is the best medicine I ever tried; it saved my life."

T. F. BAILEY, of Humboldt, Iowa, says: Vinegar Bitters cured me of paralysis ten years ago, and recently it cured me of rheumatism."

—Mr. Philip Gramley, of Rebersburg, has planned a way to repair his saw mill dam which was much damaged by the flood. He invites his friends and neighbors to come to the spot on the 25th instant and do the work. A saw mill repair party is the fashionable name for it and we hope it will be a successful one.

—It is said that the color of canary birds may be changed to a ruddy tinge by feeding them cayenne pepper.

—Mr. Charles Bergh and Miss Gertrude B Seeds, both of Tyrone. were married on Tuesday at Hollidaysburg.

—The Sand in Canada—especially that at Quebec—is sliding toward the United States. It wants to be annexed.

—The glass factory of Bellefonte is a plant which is worth between $50,000 and $60,000. It is very valauble, almost entirely new and in good condition. The opinion of the best informed is that such works, with plenty of capital in their management, can be operated at fine advantage in Bellefonte. Though so costly, it can probably be purchased at a figure scarcely more than one half that we have named.

—We are informed that cards are out announcing the prospective marriage, at an early date in October, of Miss Minnie Garman, daughter of Mr. Daniel Garman, of Bellefonte, and Mr. Isaac Maitland, now, with Keeler & Co., of Williamsport, and son of Mr. W. B. Maitland of this place. Both are young people who are very highly esteemed whose wedding will be considered an event of more than usual moment.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

WHICH THE MURDERER, W. S. HOPKINS, ALMOST RENDERED A TRIPPLE TRAGEDY BY TRYING TO TAKE HIS OWN LIFE.

The Man, Transformed into a Demon, Murders His Wife and Mother-in-Law.

PHILIPSBURG EXCITED BY THE GREATEST CRIME EVER COMMITTED WITHIN HER BORDERS.

A double murder, almost unparalleled in the annals of human crime, appalled the people of Philipsburg on Sunday morning. W. S. Hopkins, who now is suffering from wounds inflicted by himself with the intention of taking his own life, is guilty of the monstrous crime of shooting and killing the wife of his bosom—she who naturally was his dearest friend on earth—and his wife's mother. The story is a sad one and there must necessarily hang an evil tale of suffering and woe behind it.

W. S. Hopking is a carpenter by trade. He bore a comparatively good reputation. He is only twenty-nine years of age. Three years ago he was married to a young lady then only 18 years of age. No children have come to bless the home. Generally it was supposed that happiness reigned in the household, although there were some rumors of domestic infelicity. This grew into an actual realization two weeks ago when he severely whipped his wife, was prosecuted and since then has been a fugitive from justice. He had not been seen in Philipsburg until Sunday and then his presence was only made known by the perpetration of the great crime and his surrender to justice. He acknowledges the details of the dark deed which are as follows:

He had been in Houtzdale, from which place he came on Saturday night. Though not a hard drinker, he fortified himself to do the deed by drinking a pint of whiskey, though it had all been premeditated for some time past, which is shown by letters found on his person. At 1 o'clock at night he crept into the house and went into the cellar, where he concealed himself. Why he did not accomplish his purpose then we do not know unless it was that he could not summon brute courage sufficient for it. In the cellar he remained until morning. His wife's mother, Mrs. Wigamen, was with her daughter. The two women arose, prepared the breakfast and his wife was sitting at the table. It was 10 o'clock. Hopkins came from the cellar and with one fatal shot sent a bullet through her brain. Turning, he encountered Mrs. Wigamen and instantly shot at her. Though wonnded she was able to run up the stairs, but the frenzied man, intent on his murderous work, sent another bullet after the flying figure which struck a vital part and she sank to the floor in death.

Then Hopkins rushed from his dwelling into an out building where he attempted to kill himself. Two bullets were fired in quick succession into his head, but the wounds were not fatal. People on their way to church were alarmed by the reports and rushed upon Hopkins in time to wrest the weapon away from him before he had sent another bullet crashing into his skull. The instrument used is an English bull-dog revolver, 32 calibre, and that it was in prime condition is shown by the fearful results it accomplished.

Hopkins does not deny any of the facts above narrated. He seems to have been wrought into a fearfully frenzied condition of mind, and is resigned to his fate. If his wounds will permit his removal he will be brought to Bellefonte to-day.

We are told that Mrs. Wigamen, the mother-in-law, leaves a son aged about 16 years.

A gentleman, who knows the murderer very well told us this morning that Hopkins, though rather a fine looking fellow and usually appearing quite respectable, is of a treacherous disposition and was generally considered a dangerous man to deal with.

THE MURDERER'S FATE.

W. Seeley Hopkins so Seriously Wounded that he will die.

THUS COMPLETING THE TRAGEDY BEGAN ON SUNDAY MORNING.

That eager curiosity which so often impels people to look upon persons who have committed great crimes brought large crowds to the railroad station three times on Monday—at 9.32 a. m., 4.30 p. m. and 8.45 p. m.—the largest crowd in the evening. But before the train in the evening arrived a telephone message informed the DAILY NEWS editor that Hopkins was too much hurt to be moved and there was a certainty that he would die. The most correct account published in regard to the killing of Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Wigamen is that which occurred in the DAILY NEWS on Monday except that we under-estimated the extent of the injuries Hopkins inflicted on himself. He was too nervous and prostrated at that time to shoot with accuracy and the bullets ploughed along the top of his head, the second fracturing his skull. All of one side was paralyzed and the wound on his head is such that clots of blood formed on the brain, affecting that member, and his death within twenty-four hours is said to be absolutely certain.

Though the justice which the law would inflict on such a crime will be defeated the outcome is perhaps the best. It will save expense to the county and the High Sheriff will be spared a most disagreeable duty.

The letter given below has been published in some of the papers. It was written while Hopkins was premeditating the murder. It is said that Edward Hughes, mentioned in the letter, has "skipped." Since the tragedy the murderer has told various other things which implicate persons in Philipsburg, but which will likely never appear in print. The letter is:

HOUTZDALE, Pa., September 21.—I have written many statements on what I am going to do. Most of the people in Philipsburg say I have been hounded to get me out of the way so Edward Hughes and dear Eddie Goldricks, the cracker agent, can have their own way. They have used my wife Maggie as theirs. I love her to idolatry and these men can never have her again. I will die first. I want this distinctly understood. I want my body sent to Bert Hopkins, 27 Stone street, Rochester, N. Y. I hope we will both reach Heaven Good-bye all. I am in Osceola, now on my way. Whoever comes in my way when I meet Maggie and interferes will go down with her. To-night is my time, if everything is all right. Mind my words—I want my body sent home just as I fall. I hate to do a crime like this, but they have hounded me around till I am forced to it."

Funeral of the Murderer's Victims.

Mrs. Maggie Hopkins and Mrs. Wighaman, of Philipsburg, were buried on Tuesday afternoon. A large number of friends interested themselves in making the burial as impressive as possible. The ceremony was conducted by Revs. J H McGarrah and S A Cornelius. Thirty or forty conveyances were in the line of the funeral parade.

CONDITION OF THE MURDERER.

Hopkins is in a very weak state, and his left side is quite paralyzed. He does not eat, but partakes of a little milk, and the police officers are kind in their attendance on him. Much sympathy is being extended him by a large number of the citizens and those in whose employ he has been in as also many of his fellow workmen. George Rhule speaks of him as being very kindly disposed, and especially toward children. His countenance is in no wise indicative of a murderer, and nothing but love pent up, and at last getting vent in jealous frenzy, aided by the cursed liquor he indulged in, could possibly incite a man of twenty-nine summers to perpetrate such a foul deed.

This (Wednesday) morning Hopkins is said to be still better than he was on Tuesday.

Along the Bald Eagle.

Mr. R H Smith, the representative of this paper, is off on a trip east along the Bald Eagle, and will interview the residents of Rounola, Blanchard, Howard, Roland, Mt Eagle, etc. Please give him as kind, cordial and remunerative reception as possible.

Are You Going to Sunbury?

Wednesday, October 9, promises to be a notable day to the members of the G. A. R. in this part of Pennsylvania, as they will then celebrate at Sunbury. The committee has been endeavoring to secure a large attendance of members of the order and others and seem to have succeeded. In a few instances all the members of a post will be present and in others a few individuals will represent the post. An effort is being made to have all the members of the G. A. R. and individual soldiers unite in one organization representing Centre county soldiers. All soldiers who are willing to go are requested to report the fact to Comrade R C Irvin, secretary of the committee.

The rate of car fare for the excursion will be the same as the full fare one way. The figures are given from all stations on the Lewisburg and Tyrone Railroad where the G. A. R. is located as follows: Bellefonte, $2.26; Lemont, $1.99; Oak Hall, $1.96; Linden Hall, $1.88; Centre Hall, $1.72; Rising Spring $1.54; Coburn, $1.34.

The train leaves Bellefonte at 6 o'clock p. m. and leaves Sunbury again at 10 a. m. A band of music will be taken by the excursionists and the event promises to be a great demonstration.

R C IRVIN, Secretary.
THOMAS DONACHY,
A V SMITH,
Commitee.

Picnic and Festival.

On Saturday next the Milesburg Band will hold a large basket picnic in J. M. Green's grove and a festival, cake walk, etc., in A. G. Boggs' Hall in the evening. Everyone is invited: Arrangements are being made to have a special train run in the evening.

—Our most earnest thanks are due that excellent gentleman, Mr. Henry Harris, for a ride to Coleville behind his handsome horse on Saturday afternoon.

OPENING DAY.

The Beautiful and Inspiring Exercises in the High School on Monday Afternoon.

SUPERINTENDENT WOLF AND DIRECTOR FORTNEY DELIVER EXCELLENT ADDRESSES AND W. I. SWOOPE, ESQ., RECITES.

We have spent many afternoons in company with the High School teachers and pupils, but never one which quite equalled that of Monday afternoon. This was the more remarkable from the fact that the exercises were somewhat informal. We can state positively that if the High School continues as well as it has started out this year's term will end in a blaze of glory.

Mr. Boyd Musser presided as master of ceremonies and Profs. Wolf, Lieb and Etters occupied seats with him on the platform. The young Men's Orchestra was present. The young gentlemen who compose it show the result of long and patient practice and play in perfect time, and with artistic effect.

Prof. Wolf was called on for the first address and it was a most excellent and carefully prepared effort, abounding in useful thought and wise suggestion and brimfull of humor. The speaker had some humorous remarks to make in reference to the public schools of his boyhood, and the giants of those days, both boys and girls.

Then there were some beautiful thoughts in reference to the army of pupils these September days. They are not like the standing armies of Europe to perpetuate despotism, but to open avennes of knowledge for spirit, mind and will—to free from the shackles of ignorance.

He defined education and its purpose. It is as likely to lead to vice as to virtue unless nurtured by something high and holy. To the old Roman virtue meant strength and courage. Let it mean the same now in our courage to learn ways of truth. Make your education as thorough as possible. In those days thoroughness was synonymous with throughness. He sometimes notices an injunction in school houses—"First, thoroughness; then progress." He believes that the two must be combined. Thoroughness must be accompanied with progress. To be regular, punctual and self-reliant were other injunctions forcibly delivered. Pursue the true, the beautiful and the good. To the Senior class he made special remarks, reminding them that their conduct and progress will, in a measure, control the tone of the school. The Senior class of this year numbers thirteen—ten young ladies and three young gentlemen.

After another selection from the orchestra W I Swoope, Esq., was invited to recite and he gave "Over the Hills from the Poor House" in magnificent style. The young gentleman speaks with fine enunciation, his manner is impressive, even forcible, and his whole delivery is pleasing in the extreme. The most enthusiastic applause of the afternoon followed his effort.

Mr. Fortney, the President of the School Board, concluded the speech-making. He dwelt at length and in happy style on the advantages of the present over the past in school arrangements. The first hour in the morning when he went to school the pupils were smoked, That, he says, accounts for the fact that he is so well preserved. Then the walk of a mile and a half for water was described. The two pupils carrying the bucket would return with plenty of water on their feet and about three tinfuls in the bucket. The backs of the pupils might be baked while their noses would freeze. Then the children had to cut the wood for school house use. Now the children have every advantage, among them the cheap use of the best literature. He hoped these High School pupils would be examples to all the others. Study things that are good and useful. To commit to memory a selection which is in excellent English is better than to commit all the rules in Grammar. He advised all the pupils to attend the lectures in the Star course, for which they can purchase a season ticket for $1. He proposed a plan to increase the library and told them that to become good citizens was their highest privilege.

—St. Marys, Elk county, is now lighted by natural gas. The Gazette says that the first ever brought into the town was brought there on Wednesday evening. A pipe had been laid into the vacant lot, corner of Maurus and Michael streets, and extended about thirty feet into the air. At a few minutes before eight the gas was turned on, Joe Shaffer fired a Roman candle over the pipe and the whole town was lighted from one jet. The gas made such a roaring that it could be easily heard miles away. Short work will be made of laying the line, and it will not be long before our streets will be lighted with natural gas. The Gas Company's well No. 1 at Johnsonburg has a pressure of 850 pounds. The derrick of well No. 2 is now in course of erection.

—The State Convention of the Union Prohibitory League will hold its sessions in the Hall of Representatives, Harrisburg, Sept. 26th. The counties are reporting their delegates in such numbers as to give promise of a large and enthusiastic convention. The State Council holds an executive session the day before. Much interest is felt regarding the action which the League will take with regard to candidates already nominated by the three parties.

H. F. Dittman, the famous fielder of the Pennsylvania Railroad Base Ball Nine, who fell just as he was about to catch a sky scraper in the game here, has written another letter to a friend in Bellefonte in which he strongly advocates the formation of an Athletic Association. He is kind enough to outline a plan which we may publish sometime soon.

The people of Bellefonte are always especially glad to see Gov. Beaver in town He was here on Sunday. It seems to us that the longer Governor Beaver continues in office the handsomer he becomes and although we suppose that there are just as many of what we term "cares" attaching to the Gubernatorial position now that there ever were, they do not seem to effect him in the least and his countenance is as fair, bright and ruddy now as it ever was. His eye is bright, his step is light and elastic as that of any one can be who has only one foot to step on and his carriage is the personification of military grace. It is an absolute fact that Governor Beaver has a perfect military figure. From the top of his head to the sole of his foot the outlines are all easy, graceful and natural, while as firm as any occasion can require. He always wears a high hat now and that contributes to the effect. Pennsylvania has had men fill the postion of Governor who were larger in person than Gov. Beaver, and expects to have a large man next term, but she never had one whose entire appearance was as handsome and attractive as that of the present encumbent.

Reynolds & Jackson's Individual Car Telescoped.

On Monday evening Reynolds & Jackson's fine new individual car, laden to its greatest capacity with corn, was wrecked just as it was being shifted onto the siding at the mill. The car was just passing onto the siding when the other cars moved down upon it. The one in front was loaded with axes. It plunged into Reynolds & Co's. car, passing at least three-fourths of the way through it and making a most perfect example of what is termed telescoping a car. The wheels remained on the track, but the sides were forced out and the big grains of golden corn were strewn knee-deep along the track. Of course, the individual car is a complete wreck, but the other car was but slightly damaged. Small boys with baskets and bags were gathering the corn next morning and it would have been a perfect Eden for hen and chickens had any wandered in that direction!

—The dedication of the magnificent new edifice of worship erected by St. John's Catholic congregation on Bishop street, on Sunday, October 13, at 10 o'clock a. m., will be the most important and imposing religious event which has ever occurred in Bellefonte. Numerous eminent and learned dignitaries of that great church will be here and take part in the services and the spacious edifice will be filled with a distinguished congregation. The music will be very brilliant and is now in progress of preparation. There will be a large, strong and perfectly balanced choir and compositions of the old masters of music in the church will be interpreted with that depth of power and finish of execution which is the artist's ideal. In addition to the choir there will be an orchestra directed by an experienced leader. The result will be a service befitting the occasion. The admission tickets are $1 and we suppose that the entire number will be purchased long before the day of the services.
